

U. S. Officially Agrees to Part In Big 4 Talks

Nixon Accepts French Proposal On Middle East

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States agreed today, in a note to France, to join in four-power talks aimed at breaking the deadlock in Middle East peace efforts.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers handed the note to French Ambassador Charles Lucet at 12:15 p.m. EST. President Nixon had decided several days ago to accept the French proposal for talks on the crisis.

For the time being, the State Department announced only that the reply had been given to Ambassador Lucet. A formal announcement, including information on the substance of the reply, was expected later today.

Today's move constitutes the first major diplomatic action of the Nixon administration and represents a change in tactics from the methods of the Johnson administration.

Former President Lyndon B. Johnson and his advisers had demonstrated great reluctance to become involved in talks with Russia, Britain and France on the continuing Arab-Israeli conflict.

Another top policy switch has become evident from President Nixon's upcoming trip to Paris, where he will confer with President Charles de Gaulle. French officials are hoping the trip will demonstrate that Nixon is loosening the tight ties between American and British policies and is prepared to pay more attention to the views of De Gaulle.

The French expect Nixon to travel to Paris first, in March, altering the practice of other postwar presidents of meeting with Britain's prime minister before consulting the other European allies.

Since the wartime days when he had to contend with the Roosevelt-Churchill combine, De Gaulle has resented the special relationship that they established between London and Washington. French officials say putting France first on Nixon's itinerary might be an indication that he has a new view of the relative importance of America's top European allies.

Diplomatic sources say the groundwork for Nixon's visit to France was laid in a secret exchange of letters between Nixon and De Gaulle before the American was inaugurated.

Authoritative sources said Nixon wrote De Gaulle on Jan. 11 that he was looking forward to "talking directly" with the French leader about problems facing the Western nations and would "take into account France's advice."

The sources said De Gaulle replied he would "be happy to discuss any questions you want." However, diplomats in Paris believe the chances for Nixon to secure modification of De Gaulle's policy—particularly toward admission of Britain to the European Common Market and increased French participation in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization—are dependent on Nixon's reception of De Gaulle's ideas for reform of NATO and the international monetary system.

Go-Ahead Is Given for Work On Successor to Ill-Fated F111

WASHINGTON (AP) — Years behind and millions of dollars poorer, the Navy has started anew to develop a carrier-based jet fighter capable of intercepting enemy bombers attacking the fleet.

The Navy failed in an expensive previous effort to build a fleet defender from the old TFX warplane design expected by former Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara to provide one basic plane that could be adopted by all services.

That was the F111B aircraft, started in 1962 and canceled last year when it proved unable to meet Navy specifications for carrier operations.

Pentagon figures show the Navy spent $216.5 million on developing the F111B.

With little fanfare, the Navy announced Tuesday that Grumman Aircraft, builder of a few test models of the F111B, was getting a four-year, $388 million award for preproduction planning on a new job called the F14.

$3 Billion Lost

Once the F14 research and development is completed, the Navy plans to pick up an option to build 463 models at a cost estimated officially at $7.3 billion each—or over $3.3 billion in all.

Hundreds more F14s may be ordered after that initial run, expanding the overall program to perhaps $5 billion or more.

Like the ill-fated F111B, the F14 or VFX as it was called in initial paperwork, will have a swing wing and a fancy new missile system for its intercept mission.

To avert the excess weight problems this time, a Grumman representative told a newsmen, the company plans to keep the F14 weight below 60,000 pounds, mainly through use of the lightweight but powerful titanium, he expensive new metal that McNamara refused to authorize for the F111 series.

In spite of its failure, the Navy plans to build on the F111B in perfecting a successor.

Equipped With Missile

The F14 will have the "same swing-wing which can be swept back for supersonic flight or extended almost at right angles to the fuselage for slow, easy landings on short carrier decks.

President Urges Fast OK of Nuclear Treaty

Action Seen As Helpful to Soviet Ties

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon asked the Senate today to ratify the nuclear non-proliferation treaty promptly. He said such action would further his goal "of negotiation rather than confrontation with the U.S.S.R."

Nixon, in a message to the Senate, recalled urging delay in ratification of the treaty last fall because of the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia.

"My request at this time in no sense alters my condemnation of that Soviet action," he said.

In seeking "prompt consideration and positive action" on the nonproliferation treaty, Nixon said:

"I believe that ratification of the treaty at this time would advance this administration's policy of negotiation rather than confrontation with the U.S.S.R. "Important Step"

"I believe that the treaty can be an important step in our endeavor to curb the spread of nuclear weapons and that it advances the purposes of our efforts for peace program which I have supported since its inception during President Eisenhower's administration."

Nixon endorsed a commitment by the Johnson administration to allow the International Atomic Energy Agency "to apply its safeguards to all nuclear activities in the United States, exclusive of those activities with direct national security significance."

The Chief Executive also restated the government's willingness to join other nations in programs to make available to non-nuclear countries "potential benefits from peaceful applications of nuclear explosions."

Nixon also said his administration will continue this year to make available a 50 per cent advance payment to participants in the feed grains program — an action in keeping with past practice but one which outgoing President Lyndon B. Johnson suggested be dropped.

"We feel farmers are entitled to proper and sufficient notice about any change in the ground rules on such payments," Nixon said in a statement. "Many of them are already beginning to sign up for the program."

The moves were discussed at a lengthy conference Nixon held with Republican congressional leaders.

Afterwards, Senate GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen and House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford made these further announcements:

—Nixon will submit to Congress in mid-February special messages on tax reform and changes in the presidential election process.

—If negotiations fail to end the continuing dock strike, Nixon told the leaders, he may have to propose legislation dealing with national emergency strikes.

—Before making a contemplated trip to Europe soon, Nixon will meet in advance with both Democratic and Republican leaders from Congress and he will hold a similar session following his return.

—The President plans a series of reorganization efforts within government provided Congress extends expiring legislation giving him authority in that field. Said Dirksen, without getting into specifics: "There probably will be more reorganization plans in this administration than in any other."

Packers to Grant Release

Lombardi Era Ends Tonight

RY LEE REMMEL

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — The Green Bay Packers board of directors, scheduled to hold a special meeting this evening, is expected to release General Manager Vince Lombardi to join the Washington Redskins.

Lombardi formally requested Monday that he be freed from his contract to join the Redskins as part-owner.

executive vice president and head coach.

The Packers directors, President Dominic Olejniczak indicated today, will not stand in his way, although there originally was some sentiment to block his departure. They presumably will scrap the remaining five years of Lombardi's Packers contract, which runs through Jan. 31, 1974.

Passenger Arrested

FBI Laughs Last At Hijacking Joke

HONOLULU (AP) — Archie Eugene Evans, 33, insisted it was a joke. But authorities didn't think it was very funny, and said, "Tell the pilot there's a man back here with a gun who wants to go to Cuba."

Evans was arraigned before U.S. Commissioner Henry W. C. Wong in Honolulu Tuesday night under a charge that he "imparted false information regarding piracy of an aircraft while aboard United Airlines Flight 205 en route from San Francisco to Honolulu via Hilo."

The FBI described Evans as a Portland, Ore., salesman. The Honolulu Star-Bulletin said he had been a resident of Hawaii for four years until last month and had received a master's degree from the University of Hawaii.

Stewardess Judy Dooley told police in Hilo that when the Su-per DCB was 24 minutes from Hawaii, Evans summoned her and said, "Tell the pilot there's a man back here with a gun who wants to go to Cuba."

Miss Dooley said she couldn't tell whether he was joking or serious but that he insisted she relay the message to the pilot, Capt. Marvin Berlin.

When she did so, Berlin radioed ahead to the Hilo Airport and police were waiting when the aircraft arrived on schedule at 1:09 p.m.

"It was all a big fat joke," Evans said in relating the incident to newsmen after the arraignment.

"I felt it was so humorous because we were so far from anyplace, I mentioned Cuba because I read it in the newspapers," he said.

Evans said he and the stewardess had joked previously during the flight and said that he thought she understood he was just joking.

Apparently none of the 74 other passengers aboard knew anything about the incident until police handcuffed Evans and took him away, a United spokesman said. Police found Evans to be unarmed.

3-Nation Force To Guarantee Asian Peace?

Japan, Indonesia, Burma Suggested In Study by Allies

PARIS (AP) — U.S. and South Vietnamese negotiators are studying proposals for a three-nation peace force of Asian neutrals to guarantee any Vietnam peace settlement, diplomatic sources reported today. The nations most frequently mentioned are Japan, Indonesia and Burma. These and other Asian countries have been discreetly sounded out by the United States, the sources said.

American and South Vietnamese delegates in Paris have spent much time in private consultations on how to enforce a settlement. As far as is known the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong have not participated in such discussions.

The diplomats said the proposal probably will not be voiced at the peace conference until there is some progress toward a settlement. The third session of four-way talks is scheduled Thursday.

The conference is deadlocked because Hanoi and the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front refuse to discuss military deescalation without simultaneously discussing a political settlement for South Vietnam, and Saigon insists the conference has no right to discuss South Vietnam's internal affairs.

Despite the deadlock both sides seem to agree on the need to revive and revise key provisions of the 1954 Geneva agreements that ended the French Indochina war. These partitioned Vietnam "provisionally" at the 17th parallel and set up an International Control Commission made up of Canada, Poland and India.

The ICC, based on the "Troika" principle of one representative sympathetic to each side plus one neutral, was paralyzed from the start. The Canadian delegate invariably voted in sympathy with Saigon, the Polish delegate in sympathy with Hanoi, and the Indian usually abstained.

"Our attorney told us we have an enforceable contract," Olejniczak was quoted as saying today.

"but, one, there is no point in keeping a general manager who is unhappy, and, two, there is the matter of the stock offered Lombardi by the Redskins. Our non-profit, community-owned organization has no stock to offer him."

"But we would give 15 good players for him, if we could," Olejniczak added, facetiously.

Although there reportedly was some disposition earlier to ask compensation for the loss of Lombardi, the corporation is not expected to seek damages from the Redskins.

Miller a Successor?

The subject of selecting a successor is not likely to arise at the board meeting. No action is expected before Thursday on the matter.

Tom Miller, the former Packers end and publicity director who now holds the title of assistant to the general manager, appears to be the leading candidate.

Although there has been no formal expression from the board, one longtime director said, "My guess is that we would go with what we've got."

Most of the board's 45 directors have indicated they will attend to hear the recommendation of the seven-man executive committee. Olejniczak reported.

"We've tried to notify all of them," he said. "All of those in Wisconsin have been contacted, so we will have a good representation."

Olejniczak added, "I feel confident the matter will be resolved tonight — one way or the other."

A press conference is scheduled in the Packers' offices at 8 p.m. two hours after the directors are due to convene at the Forum restaurant, to announce the results of the deliberations.

In recent years, most press conferences involving Lombardi have enjoyed massive coverage and tonight's will be no exception. ABC, CBS and NBC television crews from Chicago will be present to record the proceedings, along with sportswriters from both Chicago and Milwaukee and representatives from all area media.

Ironically, tonight's board meeting will be its first emergency session in 10 years — since 1959, when the board met to approve the hiring of Lombardi as general manager and head coach.

Although a letter from Lombardi to Olejniczak and the directors will be made public at that time, Lombardi will not be present. He is in New York where he will be honored tonight by the Catholic Youth Organization as its outstanding sportsman of the year.

"Worthy of Emulation"

He will be cited for his "outstanding achievements in professional football while maintaining a high standard of exemplary conduct worthy of emulation by the youth of America."

The subject of selecting a successor to Lombardi is likely to arise at the board meeting, although no action is expected before Thursday.

Head Coach Phil Bengtson, who has two years remaining on his contract, presently is in Nevada on a scouting trip and is due to return Thursday. He is expected to meet with the executive committee at that time to discuss the possibility of taking on additional duties.

One of the first orders of business for Bengtson will be to hire a successor to Tom McCormick, who resigned Jan. 1 as offensive backfield coach.

Rumors have been rife that one or more of Bengtson's assistants would follow Lombardi to Washington. It is understood, however, that a condition of granting Lombardi his release is that he not take any Packers aides with him.

Kaukauna Park Proposal Held Up for Study

Aldermen Believe Larger Area Might Be County Project

KAUKAUNA — Aldermen Tuesday night refused action on a motion by Ald William Rogers (5th), to rezone approximately 60 acres of land near the eastern limits of the city for a wildlife refuge.

Other aldermen preferred a joint meeting with the Outagamie County park committee, city planning commission, Fox Valley Council of Governments and the health and recreation committee of the city council to make a complete study of the area and adjacent properties to learn whether a larger area might be developed into a county park.

Some aldermen said they had never been furnished with an exact description of the area involved and wanted an opportunity to view it before taking action. Others felt the rezoning might affect adjacent land which is zoned for heavy industry and is being used by one of the main industries for a fill project.

Rogers claimed inviting the county to join in the plan was unnecessary since only city property was involved and argued that home rule would be lost if others joined in the development. Other aldermen questioned whether 60 acres or 240 acres were involved and said the city could not properly clean up the area for park and wildlife refuge purposes without money from some other source.

Joint Meeting

Rogers received no support for his motion and tentative plans were made for a joint meeting of city, county and area officials.

A low bid of Gustman Chevrolet Sales for four new trucks was accepted and the city must decide within 30 days to accept the bid of $12,168 for trucks without trade-in or the bid of $12,812 with trade. Six bids were received and the successful bidder was low on both individual and package prices.

Aldermen agreed to meet with Donohue Engineering, Sheboygan, Feb. 17 to hear project reports on the new sewage plant and procedure for applying for federal aid for construction of a heated chlorine storage building at the plant site. The city has received a communication from the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration indicating

Appleton Man Pays $25 Fine For Bad Conduct

Gerald H. Bolwerk, 34, 1002 W. Oklahoma St., was fined $25 and costs or six days in jail Tuesday after pleading guilty to a disorderly conduct charge brought by an Appleton youth.

Frederick T. Foster, 17, 1807 N. Bennett St., said he and Bolwerk got into an argument at 7:30 a.m. Jan. 27 at Bolwerk's car "brushed" him while he and his girlfriend walked on Story Street.

Foster contended Bolwerk knocked him to the ground, then pulled his hair.

Bolwerk told the court he became angry when Foster began using "four letter words" in front of children. He denied hitting Foster, but admitted pulling his hair.

Boehnlein estimated damage at $100. He was unable to furnish police with a description of the youths who fled after hitting his car.

Boehnlein is willing to approve a Federal Water Pollution Control Administration construction grant for the project.

City Begins Full Sanding Of Icy Streets

Appleton's ice-glazed streets — normally sanded only at intersections — started getting special treatment Tuesday.

The city council's street-sanitation committee gave the department of public works the go-ahead at a meeting Monday afternoon.

Public Works Director Frank Keuler said past policy did not include sanding long stretches of streets, but he recommended this be done because of the severe winter conditions.

Between street division personnel and police officers who are on constant patrol throughout the city, the slipperier streets will be listed and sanded first.

Keuler said special crews would work 12-hour shifts.

Aldermen with trouble spots in their wards also will assign streets for sanding treatment.

Fire Damages Paper Machine

KIMBERLY — Fire of an undetermined cause damaged No. 3 paper machine at the Kimberly-Clark Corp. Mill about 2 p.m. Tuesday.

Fire crews from the plant and village volunteer firemen spent about one-half hour bringing the blaze under control. The fire damaged felt on the machine as flames shot upward. It took almost 10 hours before the machine was able to resume production.

A ruptured oil line was found after the fire was extinguished, but firemen were unable to determine whether the rupture occurred before or as a result of the fire.

Roger Frelich, 31, 305 Franklin St., Little Chute, pleaded innocent in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 Tuesday to a charge of issuing a worthless $35 check March 21 at the Red Owl Store, 700 W. Wisconsin Ave., Appleton.

He was released on a $50 bond pending trial June 5.

Fraud in Buying Cough Medicine Draws Probation

Two years probation was ordered Tuesday for a 46-year-old Oshkosh man who fraudulently obtained an exempt narcotic preparation in Appleton Nov. 4.

Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer first sentenced Leonard T. McCain, 818 Main St., to one year in the state prison, but then stayed sentence and imposed probation to the State Department of Health and Social Services. McCain was ordered to pay court costs.

Schaefer told McCain that maximum sentence for the felony offense is three years in prison, but he was taking into consideration McCain's clear record.

Appleton detectives said McCain gave an Appleton pharmacist the name of a Kimberly man when he purchased four ounces of an exempt narcotic cough syrup.

In order to purchase an exempt narcotic preparation, the buyer must furnish the druggist with his name and address, although a prescription is not needed.

McCain's attorney told the court his client became "attracted to" the narcotic medicine while he was taking it for a health problem.

McCain was taken into custody early last month upon his release from a Madison hospi-

GREENVILLE — St. Mary Catholic Church, voted to retain first through eighth grade classes for the next school year Sunday at the annual meeting.

This action will require hiring two lay teachers and two Notre Dame Sisters. Previously, St. Mary had three Notre Dame teaching Sisters.

Extensive Damage Occurs As New Auto Is Stolen

Outagamie County Sheriff's investigators late this morning were conferring with the district attorney's office relative to charges against two rural Clintonville men who caused extensive damage when they allegedly stole a new car early today from the K & B Auto Company in Black Creek.

The men, one 23 and the other 21, were taken into custody in their Waupaca County homes between 6:30 and 8 a.m. today. Investigators said they obtained statements from both men.

The 1969 Chevrolet four-door sedan, taken from the K & B showroom, was found behind a barn at the home of the 23-year-old man. Investigators said the new car was extensively damaged.

Car Broke Down

Authorities alleged the men entered the auto firm through a rear window about 12:45 a.m. after their car broke down near Black Creek. The men reportedly had been drinking.

They allegedly drove the new car through double doors between the showroom and the service area — without opening the doors.

Four customer cars in the service area were damaged, apparently as the men were attempting to get the new car out of the garage. A tow truck was driven out of the garage and the new car apparently was driven out through a large door which was left open.

Officials of the auto firm said this morning they were unable to give a damage estimate, but they said it would be extensive.

Reported by Owner

The incident was reported at 2:25 a.m. by Gordon Kaphingst, an owner of the firm. Outagamie County authorities immediately put out an area-wide alert for the new car.

A car owned by one of the two suspects was found parked in front of the auto firm, after the theft was discovered.

Outagamie, Clintonville and Shiocton authorities worked through the early morning hours until the suspects were taken into custody. The two men offered no resistance when they were apprehended, police said.

Sheriff Will Speak

LITTLE CHUTE — Sheriff Calvin Spice will show a film on drugs and discuss the drug problem at a joint breakfast meeting of Holy Name Society members and Boy Scouts of St. John Catholic parish following the 7:30 a.m. Sunday mass.

Mr. Paessler works for Stephenson Electric and belongs to Electricians Local 577.

Mr. and Mrs. Paessler saved $4.09 on one grocery order at Treasure Island

After Mr. and Mrs. Paessler had purchased their groceries recently at the Treasure Island Food Market, Mr. George Wichowski, the manager, asked them to make a shopping comparison test by buying the same list of groceries at another large supermarket in the area. They did, and found that the groceries that cost $25.18 at Treasure Island, cost $29.27 at the other store...$4.09 more than at Treasure Island.* Mrs. Paessler said, "I've compared grocery prices at various stores in our area, and I feel that I'm really saving money by buying our groceries here at Treasure Island. I'm sold on T.I.'s Total Savings Program."

*Actual cash register tapes and shopping lists from both stores are available for your inspection at the Treasure Island Food Market. Shopping tests were made on January 20, 1969. Treasure Island Food Markets recognize the fact that the quality of perishables such as fresh meats and produce, could vary from store to store. Mrs. Paessler assures us that to the best of her judgment, the quality of each item was comparable in each store where she shopped.

Wine on the Table Tall Crystal Glass Good Tester, Pretty

BY WILLIAM CLIFFORD

It's not the size and shape of the wine glass that counts, but what you fill it with. That only stands to reason. But wait. Without meaning to discount the importance of the wine, we shouldn't underrate the glass. At a cookout or beach party you may enjoy an inexpensive wine in a tumbler or even a paper cup. But a large clear doesn't mix with the bouquet of a red. A good all-purpose wine glass has a tulip shaped bowl with about a nine-ounce capacity. Never fill it more than half way, leaving room for the wine to build up a good "nose," which is concentrated by the slight inward curve at the rim of the tulip. The strength of the nose can be increased by swirling the wine around.

stemmed glass not only looks good on your dinner table, it also serves several practical purposes. Scientists say our eyes can distinguish 10,000,000 different shades of color. Crystal clear glass (not colored) lets one see the wine's true color. Look at it against a white background and enjoy its full beauty. If it's an old wine, is it turning from red to brown or from pale yellow to amber? These are danger signs. So is cloudiness, though not sediment. Don't cup your hand around the bowl of the glass. Lift it carefully by the stem, so that your hand doesn't warm a chilled white wine, and its odor (hand cream, perfume, tobacco)

Sheinwold Your Play Depends on Opponents

The kind of bridge you play depends partly on the quality of your opponents. If they're soft, you can afford to play carelessly. If they're tough, you must learn to avoid obvious mistakes in order to survive.

West opened the king of hearts, East followed with the ace and South played the nine. South hoped that West would lead another heart, but West trusted his partner's discouraging deuce and shifted to the ten of spades.

South played low from dummy, and East shrewdly played the jack. If South won with the ace of spades, West would later lead his other spade to give East the rest of the suit. If South refused the first spade, East would shift back to hearts. Either way South was down two.

Pin a medal on East-West for their fine defense. If East failed to play the jack of spades at the second trick South could safely refuse that trick and win the next spade. Then South could develop the clubs without worrying about the spades.

Don't reach for a medal for South. He threw away his contract at the first trick, perhaps because he wasn't used to tough defense. South should take the first trick with the ace of hearts, get to dummy with a diamond and then lead the queen of clubs for a finesse. West could take the king of clubs, but could not run the hearts since South still had the J-9 of hearts. If West shifted to the ten of spades South would immediately run his nine tricks — one spade, one heart, four diamonds and three clubs.

Your Problems Stand on Artificial Insemination Queried

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I have been married 14 months. He is just now recovering from a serious illness and the doctor has told him he will never be able to father a child. The doctor suggested that I become pregnant by artificial insemination.

I am a Catholic and I do not know if artificial insemination is forbidden by the Church. I don't want to ask a priest because it would embarrass me. Also, the Church has been changing some of its rules and I am not sure our parish priest would be up on the latest.

This was a crushing blow to us, Ann, and we both feel that if I could have a child, even with a donor, it would be more like our very own than if we adopted.

Please check with your consultants and tell us what is the position of the Catholic Church on this matter. — Anxious

Dear Anxious: Monsignor John J. Paul of La Crosse, Wis., has provided me with the information. The Catholic Church forbids artificial insemination. Monsignor Paul suggests, however, that you explore this problem with a priest who has your confidence and also a competent gynecologist. There could be a solution to your problem which is acceptable to the Church — one of which you are not aware.

Bill to Force School Board Open Sessions

Assembly Proposal Closes Loophole in Anti-Secrecy Law

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — A proposal to close a loophole which allows school boards to avoid compliance with Wisconsin's anti-secrecy law drew strong support Tuesday from a legislative committee.

The Assembly's State Affairs Committee voted 11-0 to back a bill for passage which grew out of a school board controversy in Appleton where The Post-Crescent revealed that the loophole exists.

The bill, authored by Assembly Speaker Harold Froehlich, R-Appleton, Ervin Conradt, R-Shiocton, and David O. Martin, R-Neenah, would compel city school boards to comply with term for the new judge, also will insure that in the future the election dates for the two benches do not again fall together, he explained.

From Around State

State Court Administrator Edwin Wilkie told the committee that in the past year he has sent in about 12 judges from other parts of the state to try to relieve the backlog of cases.

No opposition was expressed to the Steinhilber bill at the hearing.

The Judicial Council's position concerned a request from the Waupaca County Board to Knowles that the planned second County Court be delayed until 1971, rather than started in July.

Knowles asked the council to comment.

The council, noting that two years ago it had opposed the second court, said that it has no new information on which to change its position. But it also does not know that the situation has not changed since the Legislature required that the new court be created over the council's opposition, the group explained.

Therefore, it will not take a position on the board's request, especially because nomination papers have also been filed for the court post scheduled to open this summer, according to the council.

Friday Deadline on Demands

OSU Students Vote to Strike

BY FRANK CHURCH
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

OSHKOSH — The Oshkosh State University administration has until noon Friday to act on a set of student demands or at least 700 students will strike the university, beginning at 7 a.m. Monday.

The ultimatum followed four and a half hours of debate by the 20-member student senate Tuesday night.

The senate, after approving a list of demands almost identical to ones they approved the previous night, spent over an hour deciding on a date for the strike if demands were not met.

A seven-member student senate negotiating team will be appointed today to meet with the administration over the demands. If, by Friday noon, the administration does not act or commit itself to act, the student senate will meet in full session at that time to officially call a strike.

Depends on Action

On the other hand, if the demands are fulfilled to the satisfaction of the majority of the student senate, the strike action will be called off.

While the senate was meeting, a group of 55 faculty members met elsewhere, and more than 30 voted not to cross picket lines, if the strike was called.

And at still another auditorium on campus, 600 to 700 members of a group called Concerned Students met to unanimously support a strike for Thursday morning.

The group then waited while the student senate voted and revoted on seven possible dates to seek administration reaction to the demands. The issue was settled at 11 p.m.

By that time, most Concerned Students members had returned to their residence halls but several lined the walls of the senate meeting room.

"We're satisfied with the action the senate took," said Ron Retzlaff, a Concerned Student leader.

Concerned Students had voted to go along with the senate decision, despite recommending a Thursday strike date.

But most Concerned Students members present were pleased with the Friday deadline on demands, rather than the two of three other motions for waiting until Sunday or Monday.

Not All Happy

Some Concerned Students members were displeased, however.

"They've got us over a barrel," said one dissident student leader, who noted the majority of students would back the senate action.

The demands, presented to university President Roger Supvs. Edward Ziegler and Ira Livingston Jr. voted in favor of granting the license; Thorson voted against it. Esler will turn in his license and the newly-granted license will be under the name of the amusement corporation.

Later, when considering several bartenders' applications, the board voted unanimously to table Baumgarten's request. Similar applications for Sydney Fritz, Stanley Drumm, Roger Kimball and Hilary Zander were unanimously approved.

When asked why the board tabled the Baumgarten application, Thorson said:

Assemblymen Commend Guiles For OSU Action

MADISON (AP) — Despite heated objections, the Wisconsin Assembly today passed a resolution commending the action of President Roger Guiles of Oshkosh State University following a violent disturbance by black students last November.

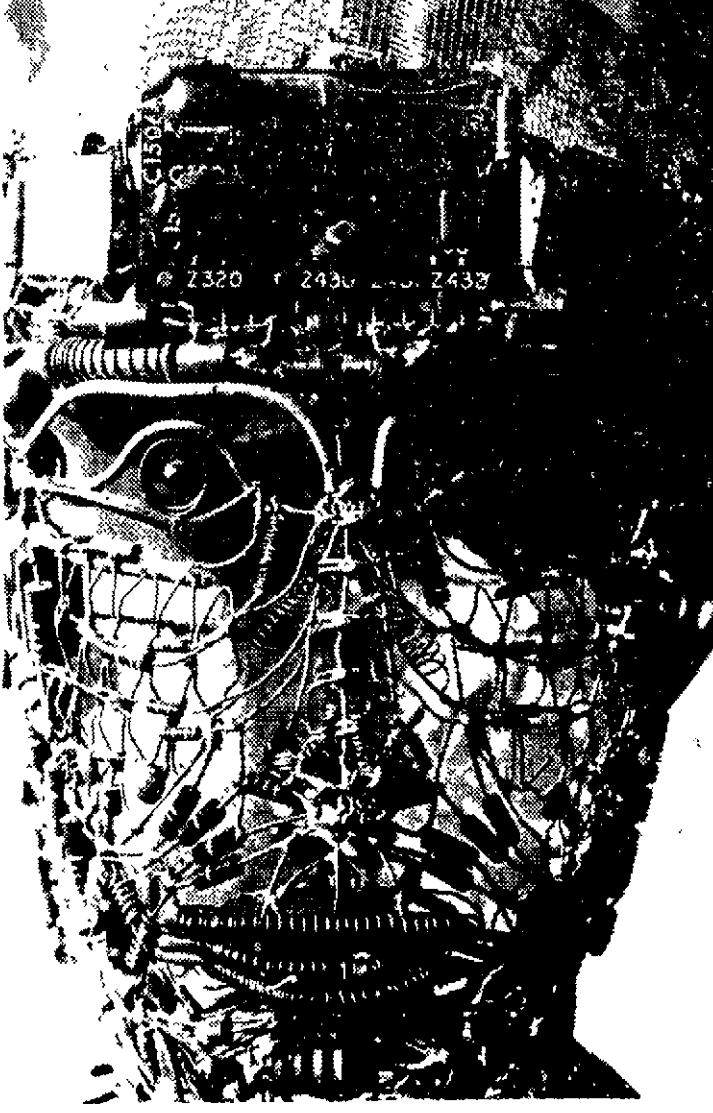

The resolution was approved on a 65-34 vote.

Ninety-four Negroes were expelled from the university as a result of the demonstration.

The resolution was sponsored by Assemblyman Elmer Nitschke, R-Beaver Dam.

Two substitute resolutions, one of which condemned Guiles, were rejected by the Assembly.

Critics of the Nitschke resolution contended that its adoption might prejudice cases currently in the courts.

Aldermen Stunned By Police Station Alterations Estimate

$60,000 Asked for Temporary Site

City officials received a shock Monday, and still hadn't recovered today, when told it would cost from $40,000 to $60,000 to prepare the old Automotive Supply Co. building as a temporary police station.

A consultant stunned members of the board of public works during its regular meeting at city hall when he said it would take $38,000 to upgrade heating facilities.

Police Chief Earl O. Wolff and Inspector John Gosch came in with a list of projects they thought should be carried out before the department moved in. It totaled about $60,000, including heating.

"No Deal"

Ald John Ayers (12th), chairman of the city council's public safety committee, declared in no uncertain terms that he would not "buy" the suggested renovations and high costs.

Recently, the city purchased the building for $80,000 so police could move in when the existing police station at Morrison and Washington streets is sold to the developers of the Gimbel's Department Store for $89,000.

What rked board members most, they said, was earlier estimates before the purchase of the Automotive building was okayed, which indicated the heating could be improved for $8,000 to $10,000 and that other minor work needed to be done to convert the two-story building into offices and other rooms.

Director of Inspections Charles Magnette and Building Inspector Richard Atkins were called in by the board and expressed surprise at the latest renovation cost estimates.

And a local heating contractor, who had inspected the building for the city some time ago, also was contacted and stuck by his opinion the heating could be upgraded for $8,000 to $10,000.

"These costs brought in here today are way out of line," declared Ald. John Steidl (18th). "I can't see sticking that kind of money into the building."

Aldermen were extremely vocal in their criticism that latest plans of the police department for so-called temporary headquarters were "too permanent."

Minimum Expense

"This thing really bugs me," Ayers declared. "Let's forget about these latest proposals for remodeling that building and get the police department moved in there with a minimum of expenditures."

Ayers said police would not have ideal conditions but thought it something "the department can live with until we provide a new, permanent building."

The city currently is involved in talks with Outagamie County over the possibility of jointly constructing a safety building.

If the proposal fails through, the city intends to explore the possibility of constructing a new municipal building (city hall) which would also include police department facilities.

The members of the board of public works inspected the building, but took no action on recommending when police should move in.

3 Break-ins In 3 Weeks At Airport

Burglars, for the third time in three weeks, have struck at the Outagamie County Airport.

Sheriff's investigators said that damage and stolen merchandise may total several hundred dollars.

The latest burglary and vandalism was reported about 7 a.m. today.

Investigators said entries were made into Maxair, Inc., the Air Wisconsin terminal building, and the offices of airport manager Charles Olson.

An undetermined amount of change was taken from cigarette and cold drink vending machines at Maxair, where service door on the hangar and a lobby door. Merchandise also was taken from a showcase.

The burglars broke a window to gain entry into Olson's office, which is at one end of the Appleton Beechcraft Corp. building.

Once inside the office, the burglars threw chocolate pudding onto walls and furnishings.

An investigator said they got the pudding from the food vending machine which they broke into.

Council Might Delay Report On Government Revamping

Buckley, Others Don't Want Matter Heard Before Spring Vote

A decision was pending today whether the controversial and politically-explosive City Governmental Operations Committee Report of Nov. 4, 1968 is to be aired tonight by the Appleton City Council.

Aldermen and several other city officials said they heard for the first time this morning that the finance committee would request a committee of the whole meeting after the regular business session.

Mayor George Buckley was among the first to issue a statement that the report — recommending sweeping changes in the makeup of city government and common council — should not be brought up just prior to spring elections.

Action Expected

Recently, it was learned, Thomas McKenzie, head of the Mayor's Citizens Advisory Committee, asked Ald. Alvin E. Tews (5th), council president, when some action could be expected on the report.

Tews said this morning he told McKenzie it could be taken up at a committee of the whole meeting, either tonight or in a couple of weeks.

"We have a finance committee meeting at 7 p.m. and I will ask the committee then when to schedule the report for review by the council," Tews commented.

The original report circulating at city hall was that Max Hensel, chairman of the committee which prepared the report, had asked for a special meeting now. However, Tews said he had not been contacted by Hensel.

Buckley said he was not criticizing the finance committee, but felt it was ill-advised for any group to press for council action on the report's many recommendations prior to an election.

"Somebody is doing some political maneuvering to bring up controversial subjects just before an election," Buckley charged.

"The incumbents (11 aldermen up for re-election) would have to vote on the various recommendations and no matter which way they voted, the call for a referendum April 1 on the position of city clerk and attorney becoming appointed instead of elective.

If there were such an election, the council would have to authorize the referendum 40 days prior to April 1.

Buckley said he would favor a complete review of the report recommendations the first week in May when the new council is seated.

The far-reaching recommendations in the 13-page report were prepared by Hensel, along with Roy Pointer and Robert Ebbert, former aldermen; Wilard Johnson, businessman; Robert Buess, former public works director; Edward Merten, a business executive; and Mrs. Daniel Crowley, housewife and League of Women Voters representative.

It calls for ward redistricting and cutting the size of the city council from 20 to 10 members.

Salary Boost

It recommends boosting the salaries of aldermen $600 to $1,800 a year.

Other things recommended are:

- Appointment rather than election of the clerk, city attorney, assessor and treasurer
- Combining functions of the treasurer's office with the finance department.
- Putting the appointment of the clerk and attorney to referendum vote April 1 of this year.

Failed to Tell Officials All Kaukauna Election Workers Knew About Error, Green Claims

KAUKAUNA — City Atty. Donald Green claimed all election workers in the city were aware of an error in the Jan. 28 school referendum by afternoon of the election but failed to notify city officials until the next day.

Green "unofficially" declared the Joint School District No. 2 special referendum invalid and has been conducting an investigation into the unique and controversial matter.

He informed the common council Tuesday night election workers in the First Ward learned that the wrong questions appeared on the referendum and by afternoon all election workers apparently knew of the error. The council took no action on the election issue.

Green also intimated that the election workers failed to inform City Clerk Karl Marzahl of the error when the results were turned in after the election. Marzahl claimed he was not aware of the error until the following day.

The "wrong" question appeared only in the city wards. The ballots were correct in all outlying voting areas.

School district voters rejected a proposed $1.5 million bond issue for the construction of a new elementary school.

The referendum should have stated: "Shall the city of Kaukauna issue negotiable general obligation bonds in the principle amount of $1,500,000 for the purpose of erecting and equipping a new elementary school in Joint School District No. 2?"

The incorrect question that appeared on the seven city machines stated:

Correct Question

"Shall the City of Kaukauna build or construct or participate in the building or construction of a new elementary school either in or outside the city limits of the City of Kaukauna within the next two years?"

Green told the council he was alerted to the error on Jan. 29 after receiving calls from the superintendent of schools and school business manager. The city attorney, accompanied by school authorities, examined the machines and verified that seven of the 10 machines were in error.

Two machines each in the 1st, 2nd, 3rd and one in the 4th wards were found to have the wrong question while one in the 4th and two in the 5th wards carried the proper referendum question.

Green made no attempt to set responsibility or blame anyone for the wrong referendum question. He explained how the ballots were handled by the printer and concluded although some old referendums were on file at the printer's office, there was little likelihood that the wrong ballots could have been delivered to the city.

Traded Ballots

The city attorney informed the council he traced the packaged ballots to the city clerk's office where they were kept in a

Building Rehabilitation Buckley Plans Better Enforcement of Code

Fearing Appleton may become vulnerable to having its communitywide workable program decertified, Mayor George Buckley disclosed Monday he is going to press for better code enforcement.

In a letter to City Planner Jack Hetu, the mayor called attention to various neighborhood planning districts contained in the citywide comprehensive plan prepared in 1965.

The plan singled out several areas for special code enforcement, along with earmarking one block in the central business district for urban renewal, and other areas in the community for building rehabilitation.

Although the department of inspections has been responsible, having several rundown buildings condemned and razed over the past year, Buckley is of the opinion more code enforcement has to be done to prevent blight and force some owners to properly maintain properties.

Usually the department of inspections, headed by Charles

Magnette, acts after it receives a complaint.

Buckley, pointing to the comprehensive plan and agreements the city has with the federal government in connection with financial grants for public works projects, claims more should be done.

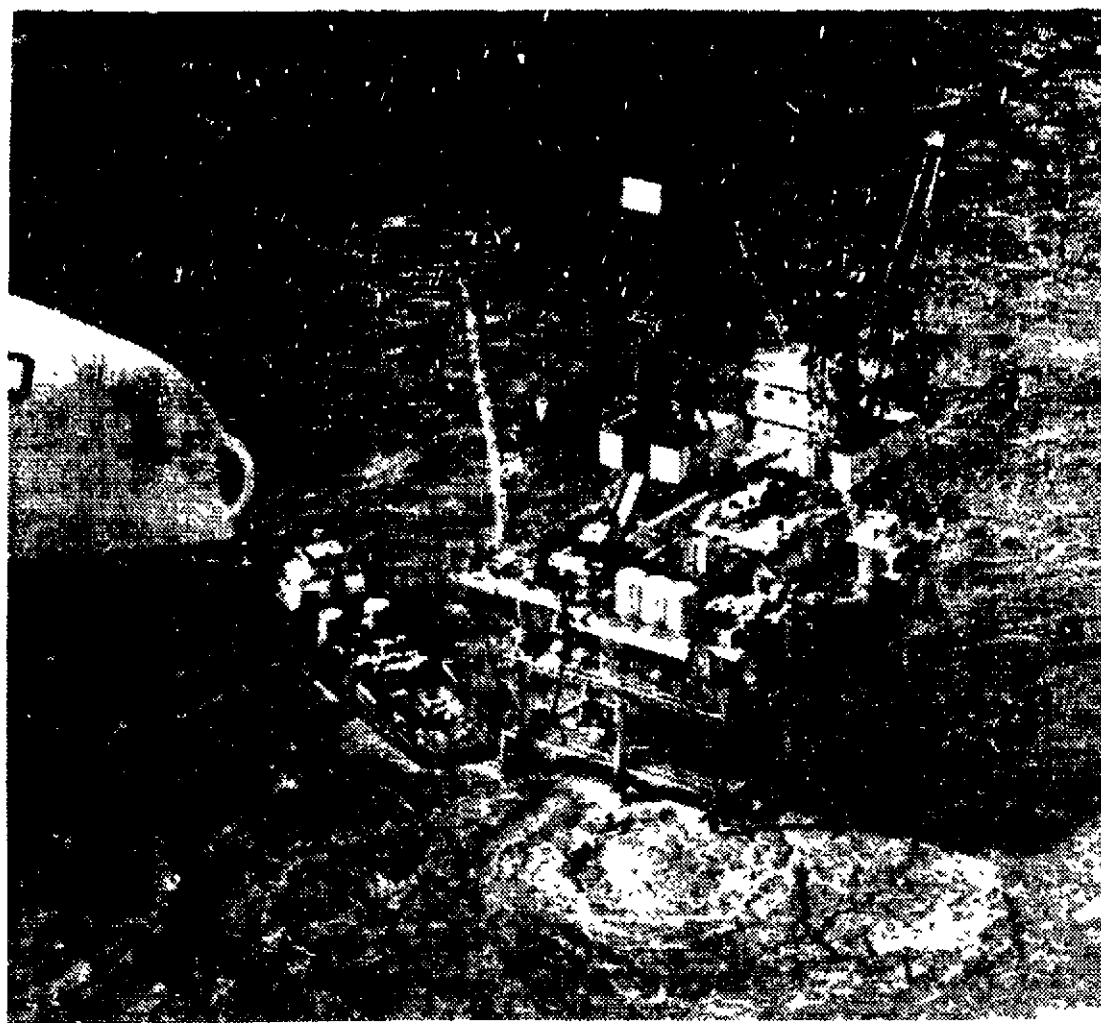

However, the inspection department reportedly is understaffed.

In the 1969 budget, Buckley put the allocated funds for the hiring of an additional inspector to work on code enforcement.

"We have to get more people out in the field on continuing inspections," Buckley said. "Or we might have problems."

Buckley told Hetu, in view of the fact he (Buckley) had to certify an affidavit that the city would inspect a certain number of buildings a year on a continuing basis, he wanted a meeting to discuss implementation of the project.

He asked Hetu to prepare recommendations for a meeting to be held with City Atty. David Green, Public Works Director Frank Keuler and Magnette. No date was set.

Oil Spreads Along Coast

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — The bubbling oil slick in the Pacific, suddenly spreading to an estimated 800 square miles under shifting winds, surged into Santa Barbara's harbor today.

Sixty persons were removed Tuesday night from boats clogged by the heavy brown and green oil that darkened beaches four miles to the north. "The smell is awful," one man said.

From two work boats, crews sprayed chemicals over the six-inch-deep oil surrounding 700 anchored boats valued at an estimated $20 million.

The wind shifted toward the sea before dawn.

Portions of a log boom broke under the surging sea, allowing in oil from the vast slick which already had covered much of the ocean for 20 miles from Carpinteria to Goleta and 40 miles out. Several miles of beaches were coated, as if painted.

On Anacapa Island, which was surrounded by oil, a herd of 100 seals was trapped on three small outcroppings of rock, and conservation officials feared the seals would die before they could swim free.

Nixon, Laird Like 'Fight-Talk' Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American military policy of keeping pressure on the enemy in South Vietnam while peace talks continue in Paris is being supported by the Nixon administration.

Pentagon officials indicate that Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird has kept in force the policy set by the Johnson administration of allowing Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, U.S. commander in Vietnam, authority to maintain "aggressive patrolling" and "spoiling operations" in the countryside.

Earlier this week, Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., called for an end to U.S. offensive actions in Vietnam. McGovern contended "it is long past time we quit worrying about saving face and started worrying about saving lives."

Civilian and military authorities said it is to hold down U.S. losses that Abrams mounts operations to keep the enemy off balance.

"Any time you keep the enemy off balance and deny him the opportunity to launch coordinated offensives, you cut down his ability to inflict casualties on your forces," one official said.

Laird made clear his attitude at his first news conference last week when he said: "I believe that we must continue to protect the American service personnel that are stationed in Vietnam all during these Paris talks."

"Sufficient Pressure" "Every effort is being made to keep sufficient pressure on the enemy so that our service personnel in Vietnam will not be overrun."

The new defense chief will review the conduct of the war with Abrams when he makes his first trip to Vietnam as the Nixon administration's Pentagon leader.

Laird has not yet decided on a date for that trip, but there is a chance he might fly to Saigon before starting a round of test-imony to congressional committees in mid-March.

McGovern, in his talk Monday to an antiwar group, urged an immediate reduction in the number of U.S. troops and consolidation of the remaining forces "in the most easily defended and most significant positions."

Laird has rejected any one-sided U.S. troop reduction in Vietnam, saying "I believe that it would not be useful for us to talk about unilateral withdrawal now that we are in the substantive talks" in Paris.

McGovern's espousal of pulling back U.S. troops into "the most significant positions" amounts to a renewal of the enclave strategy proposed by war critics in the past.

U.S. military officers have argued that such a pullback would mean yielding the countryside to the Viet Cong and would rule out any political settlement other than surrender of the country.

American troops have been engaged in what officials call "aggressive patrolling" and "spoiling operations" with these objectives: to detect enemy movements, to inflict casualties on the enemy and short circuit his attacks, to locate and occupy his bases and to capture or destroy supply caches.

"Outstanding" Success Military officers said allied units have scored outstanding success in overrunning caches. In January, they took 125 tons of caches containing 820 tons of rice, arms and ammunition. They calculated the 565 tons of rice were enough to sustain 18,000 men for a month.

Since last spring, officials said, there has been a greater emphasis on "cordoning" operations. These involve sealing off known Viet Cong areas, then tightening a ring around villages and other places suspected of being Viet Cong centers.

South Vietnamese troops and national police then enter the villages and attempt to separate the Viet Cong from the population, thus breaking down what is called the enemy "infrastructure."

These operations reportedly are having some success because of improved intelligence.

Full Alert Ordered During Tet Holiday

Vietnamese Taking No Chance On Repeat of Surprise Offensive

SAIGON (AP) — The Saigon government today canceled all military leaves beginning Feb. 10 so that any Viet Cong offensive during the Tet celebration won't catch the South Vietnamese army unaware as it did last year.

The South Vietnamese command said all government forces would be placed on 100 per cent restriction and all leaves were canceled effective one week before Tet, the lunar new year which this year falls on Feb. 17. That means that all troops must remain at their duty stations or at their quarters around the clock.

Tet is the biggest celebration of the Vietnamese calendar and traditionally a time to visit one's birthplace and the graves of one's ancestors. Last year about half the South Vietnamese army was on leave for Tet when the Viet Cong, after proclaiming a cease-fire, launched its biggest offensive of the war.

Cease-Fire Announced The lunar new year this year falls on Feb. 17, and the Viet Cong has announced a week's cease-fire for Feb. 15-22.

President Nguyen Van Thieu is expected to announce at a news conference Thursday that his forces will join in the truce, but for a far shorter period than a week.

"We'll probably go along with the South Vietnamese government," said a U.S. spokesman. Little battlefield action was reported today.

The U.S. Command said air strikes and artillery killed 36 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong soldiers in two clashes Tuesday at opposite ends of the country, north of Saigon and south of Da Nang. American forces suffered no casualties in either clash, the command said.

Crewmen Killed Two U.S. Marine helicopters collided in flight Tuesday seven miles southeast of Da Nang, and the Marine Corps said all eight American crewmen were killed.

Marine spokesman said an investigation was under way to determine the cause of the collision.

Forty-five miles northwest of Saigon, infantrymen from the U.S. 25th Division assessing following up B52 strikes uncovered a base camp with 700 yards of heavily reinforced bunkers, a camp that could perhaps take care of 3,000 enemy troops. Spokesmen said it was destroyed.

It was the second big enemy base uncovered recently on an attack route northwest of Saigon. The 1st Air Cavalry Division worked to seal the well from which an estimated 150,000 gallons of oil have leaked since last Tuesday. A spokesman for Union Oil Co. said the leakage appeared to be lessening.

On Tuesday drilling resumed in the Santa Barbara channel after oil companies operating the six wells in the area agreed to tighter regulations set down by an emergency board of the Department of the Interior.

The stricter rules call for more frequent tests of blow-out devices, more rigid drilling procedures and the installation of more casing where needed.

The wells were shut down Monday at the request of Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel after he viewed the slick. He announced the resumption in Washington Tuesday saying that a thorough study is under way on regulations governing drilling on the continental shelf.

With a highly sophisticated tracking system, the F14 will be able to fire Phoenix missiles simultaneously at six attacking bombers before they are within striking reach of the carriers.

To make sure the F14 fares better than the F111B, Congress took a very close look this time to see that the Navy is on the right track.

Grumman was announced in January as producer of the new Navy carrier-based plane, and the contract was supposed to have been signed last week.

At the last minute, however, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird reported the House Appropriations Committee wanted a second look at the records.

Monday, after additional study of Navy officers' testimony, the committee's doubts apparently were resolved and Laird was freed to grant the F14 contract to Grumman.

Technical Problems As the F14 program proceeds, two remaining F111 series aircraft are suffering technical and financial problems.

The Air Force's tactical fighter version—the F111A—is undergoing repairs for failure of an internal box-like structure around which its swing-wing operates.

The Air Force sent eight F111As to Southeast Asia last year for combat trials in Vietnam, but three crashed and the squadron recently was recalled to the United States.

In all, nine F111As crashed in two years of Air Force tests and training flights.

The Air Force's strategic bomber version, the FB111, has had little technical difficulty, but has encountered some rough going financially.

The Pentagon planned to begin buying FB111 bombers this year, but because of congressional doubts, the program has been cut to 90 planes.

Loss of Coyotes To Cost $23,000 OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma City may have to pay $23,500 because gophers adapt to city life better than coyotes.

At least, that's the opinion of City Councilman Dr. Harry Deupree.

Deupree told the council Tuesday that gophers have eaten the wrappers off electrical cables on the Draper Expressway, thus causing shorts. He said coyotes kept gophers under control until the coyotes were displaced by civilization. Their underground counterparts were not displaced.

"Maybe we could save money by buying coyotes," suggested Dr. Deupree.

The city decided in favor of gopher-proof conduits.

Tax Sting Stirs Resistance To Vocational School Act

Referendum Asked to Provide State Funding for Program

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Resistance to the new state vocational school act is spreading as rank and file taxpayers become aware that it will raise their school taxes substantially in those districts which had been exempt from the vocational school levy.

Symptomatic of the resistance is a legislative joint resolution which asks for a statewide referendum on a proposal to transfer the cost of the vocational school districts which now cover the whole of the state from the property tax base to the state government general fund.

Significantly, the authors of the demand represent rural constituencies which had not been vocational school districts and therefore did not pay taxes for their operation except modest sums to cover the under-cost tuition charged by the city schools for the few rural children who enrolled in vocational programs.

New Liability

The present law requires that all of the state be within a vocational school operating and taxing district by July 1 of 1970, but most of the district organizations have been completed and are now operating, a fact which has brought home to many thousands of persons their new liability for taxation to support such expanded educational service.

The law permits a vocational district levy of up to two mills on equalized valuation. Although most of the districts have held their levies below that maximum, an equalized levy in many districts is the equivalent of three mills or more on assessed valuation, which is a painful boost in some of the low valuation rural districts of northern Wisconsin where most of the opposition to the new program has been observed.

Moreover, the law permits the district boards to borrow funds for building and equipment, subject to a provision for a referendum vote if a petition for such a vote is filed. As the program grows and building programs start, such debt service will add to the tax load, local taxpayers are beginning to appreciate.

C. L. Greiber, state director of the program, says he is not surprised about the reaction in some districts, and especially those of northern Wisconsin where the idea of vocational school property taxation is unfamiliar. During the long history of vocational schools in the state, they were mostly provided in the industrial centers with larger tax bases.

Early Opening Asked for New Court Branch

Winnebago-Calumet Problems Considered By Judicial Council

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Northeastern Wisconsin court problems received a thorough airing in the state capital Tuesday as the state Assembly and the Judicial Council turned their attentions toward solutions to problems in Winnebago, Calumet and Waupaca counties.

In separate actions, the assembly judiciary committee considered a bill offered by Assemblyman Jack Steinhilber, R-Oshkosh, on court dockets, crowdings in the Calumet and Winnebago Circuit Court, while the council told Gov. Warren P. Knowles that it would not take a position on a contested court in Waupaca County.

Steinhilber's bill would speed up the start of the term of the second branch of the circuit court from January, 1970, to July, 1969.

Judge Candidates

Campaigns for the court post are now going on, and an election to fill the branch created by the 1967 Legislature will be conducted in April.

Steinhilber said that the court docket is extremely crowded, especially since the death of Judge Arnold Kane.

Currently there are 373 cases pending, said Steinhilber. The state court commissioner has been helpful in sending in extra judges to the circuit, but the backlog keeps building, the law-maker told the committee.

The Winnebago County budget for the coming year includes the extra expense of the new court opening earlier than originally planned. A courtroom and chambers for the new judge also are now being prepared, according to Steinhilber.

The changed date, coupled with a five and one half year the 1959 state open meeting law. Under a 1941 statute, such boards can now lapse into committee of the whole sessions and exclude the public whenever they wish. The intent of the 1959 law was to force all public bodies in the state to allow public attendance at all sessions, with severely limited exceptions mainly dealing with personnel and real estate.

"There is no function of government that is more important than education," said Froehlich. "There is no function of government that spends more money or has more influence than education. There is no reason why those who do this business can't do it in public," said the Speaker.

He termed the bill "corrective in nature."

No opposition was expressed at the public hearing.

4 OSU Students Bound Over on Drug Charges

OSHKOSH — A 19-year-old Larsen youth was one of four Oshkosh State University students who were bound over in Winnebago County Criminal Court Tuesday to answer charges of possession of marijuana.

The youth was James A. Clark. Court Commissioner Silas Spengler took the action after hearing testimony in a preliminary examination Clark also is charged with selling the drug. He is free without bond.

The other youths include Daniel J. Wells, 19, route 1, Hudson, also charged with giving away marijuana; Stephen Kraatz, 19, Grafton, also selling the drug; and Michael Lundahl, 18, Ripon, possession only.

Spengler set Friday for the next appearance of the four youths. They will face County Judge James V. Sitter.

Lison Named To Head State National Guard

Green Bay Native Gets Promotion to Brigadier General

Special to The Post-Crescent
MADISON — James J. Lison, a Green Bay native, today was made Adjutant General of the Wisconsin National Guard by Gov. Warren P. Knowles.

In a surprise move, Knowles also pinned brigadier general's stars on the 48-year-old career officer. The Department of Army had promoted Lison Tuesday.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Lison, of 936 S. Irwin Ave., Green Bay, was deputy adjutant general and acting head of the guard since Maj. Gen. J. Olson was killed a week ago in a flaming plane crash at Milwaukee's Mitchell Field.

Lison said the personal joy of the promotion was lost with the tragedy.

'A Tradition'

Knowles, standing at Lison's side, said "it is the tradition of the army — the band must pass."

Lison is married to the former Marian Kehl of Green Bay, and is a brother of Mrs. Robert (Carol) Hanson, a Post-Crescent staff writer. His wife attended the ceremony in the governor's executive office.

In a brief statement, Lison said there will be no abrupt changes in Guard policy and that he would carry out "most" of Olson's policies.

Lison assumes command of 9,500 national guardsmen and about 1,700 Wisconsin Air National Guard members. The appointment is for a ten-year term, ending Feb. 5, 1979.

St. Norbert Grad

Lison, a Green Bay East High School and St. Norbert College graduate, was commissioned a second lieutenant in 1942.

In World War II, Lison served in the European Theater, was awarded the Bronze Star, and was discharged a captain.

In 1953, he became the full-time director of civilian personnel at state guard headquarters in Madison and in 1959 became personnel and administrative officer for the adjutant general's office.

He was promoted to deputy adjutant general in 1967.

vault until picked up by an employee involved in setting up the machines for voting.

Green also learned the ballots were installed over a two-day period and the first ballot installed on the first day was checked for accuracy.

Two other machines were prepared the first day. Seven remaining machines were prepared the second day, but no actual check was made of the question being installed, Green's investigation disclosed.

The attorney said the machines were then locked and sealed until delivery to the various voting stations about five days later. It appears, although election workers arrived early, none checked the question on the machine with the ballot, Green reported.

Not Completed

Green said his investigation is still not completed. Aldermen attempted to question the city attorney on what course of action to follow but the investigator indicated the matter would be reviewed again with the fiscal control board of the school district Wednesday night.

Outagamie County Dist. Atty. James Long is conducting a full-scale investigation into the election upon the advice of the state attorney general's office.

Green told the council that the district attorney's lone interest in the case was to determine whether a crime had been committed.

Two Teen Boys Admit Committing Vandalism

KAUKAUNA — Police have apprehended two boys, ages 13 and 14, who admitted causing about $20 damage at Giddings and Lewis Machine Tool Co. and breaking or damaging traffic signs and mailboxes over the weekend.

Disciplinary action will be handled by parents who will be required to make restitution for damages, police said.

Baby Lotion Suspected in Woman's Facial Infection

A suspected incident of infection from the use of baby lotion has apparently occurred in the Fox Cities.

An Appleton woman who used some of the Mennen Baby Magic lotion last week is under a dermatologist's care for an infection of the skin on her face and nose. After treating a cut and bruise with antiseptic, the woman said she applied the Mennen's Baby Magic Lotion to keep the area soft. The infection allegedly started soon after.

The Mennen Co., in an Associated Press story carried in Sunday's Post-Crescent, warned that some bottles of its Baby Magic Lotion may contain harmful bacteria and warned parents not to use it on their infants. The company explained that the lotion could be potentially harmful only if exposed to an open wound. The company spokesman said it could infect the wound. The warning applied to lotion manufactured before March, 1968, and could be identified by any letter stamped on the bottom of the nine-ounce bottle in addition to a number. The Appleton woman said she purchased her lotion about 15 months ago. It carried numbers and a letter.

The company also warned that bottles stamped "219" without a letter could possibly be harmful.

The lotion was the only product in the company's Baby Magic line that could be confused with potentially dangerous, near line. Proceeds will go into the district GOP treasury. A

Knowles Will Lead Salute at Dinner for Rep. William Steiger

WEST BEND — Gov. Warren P. Knowles will lead a salute to freshman Rep. William A. Steiger at a $25 per plate dinner Feb. 14 at Oshkosh.

The dinner honoring the 6th District Republican follows his selection as one of the nation's ten outstanding young men of 1968 by the National Jaycees. It will replace the traditional Lincoln Day dinner.

Robert E. Stauffer, Oshkosh, is general chairman for the Magic line that could be confused with potentially dangerous, near line. Proceeds will go into the district GOP treasury. A

Rural Amherst Slaying New Trial Asked For Mark Leroux

Special to The Post-Crescent
MADISON — Circuit Court Judge Lowell D. Schoengarth, Neillsville, has been appointed by the State Supreme Court to hear a motion for a new trial for Mark Leroux, the rural Amherst youth convicted of murdering his parents a year ago.

Schoengarth said Leroux's legal counsel was filing motions on alleged trial errors and alleged violation of constitutional rights. The hearing, including oral arguments, will be held "within two months" and presumably at the Portage County courthouse in Stevens Point, he said.

Leroux, who is serving a life sentence in the state prison at Waupun, was convicted of shooting his parents Nov. 9, 1967, in their upstairs bedroom. The Leroux home, four miles south of Amherst, was destroyed by fire after the shooting.

The victims were Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Leroux. Leroux, 42, was a retired Navy veteran who was employed for the Wisconsin Telephone Co. His wife, Mary, 38, had worked in an area restaurant.

A daughter, Jeanette, 16, escaped the burning house with her brother. She had been sleeping in a downstairs bedroom.

Schoengarth said this morning he will study the motions and hear oral arguments before deciding on a retrial. If he denies the motions, the defendant could appeal to the State Supreme Court, Schoengarth said.

Circuit Judge James Levi, Stevens Point, disqualified himself because he presided at the preliminary hearing before Leroux's trial and conducted a juvenile hearing involving Leroux.

A retrial motion must be made within a year after conviction. The motion was filed in January.

OSU Student Senate OKs Strike Decision control of the student union, abolishing women's hours, one semester rather than two semester contracts for residence halls, and the requirement that campus organizations register only with the student senate to be eligible to use university facilities.

Two other key demands were that the administration act with "urgency" to implement the Black Students' demands of Nov. 21, 1968, which included hiring black professors, adding more black culture courses and an Afro-American cultural center, plus a demand that faculty members whose contracts were not renewed between Jan. 1 and Feb. 1 be reinstated immediately until their departments re-evaluate their cases.

Voted Down

However, the senate decided 14-2 against a student demand that the school ask for the resignation of E. O. Thedinga, vice president for student affairs whom students blame for policies they say were designed to suppress the faculty's freedom of expression on campus issues.

No administrators could be reached for comment, although Garner Horton, public information director, said the administration would react after "the demands have been studied."

The administration and he will need to meet and discuss them before they will make a statement," he said.

Guiles is in Madison today, attending a long-range university planning session. He is expected to return Thursday.

Expect Action

Robert Field, faculty senate president, said he expected the senate would consider the student senate action Thursday night, and that a stand, probably negative, would be taken.

"I think the reaction of the (faculty) senate will be similar to their reaction to the Nov. 21 demonstration," Field said. "We hope that all student groups will work through legitimate channels to realize their aims," he added.

Field said the decision to "use the strike" was "an unfortunate decision" in the eyes of most of the 600 faculty members.

More Student Power

Man, 19, to Be Tried on Drug Charge

Victor Sierlecki Denies Selling, Possessing Hashish

Victor Sierlecki, 623 W. Sixth St., will stand trial May 7 on a charge of possessing and selling a narcotic drug.

Sierlecki, 19, pleaded innocent Tuesday, following completion of the second half of a preliminary hearing in Outagamie County Court Branch 2. He is free on a $1,000 bond. His attorney said he has not yet decided if he wants a jury trial.

Richard Sommer, 19, Neenah, had testified Jan. 27 that he paid Sierlecki $5 for hashish at the Appleton youth's apartment the evening of Dec. 27. Hashish is a resinous product of marijuana.

Sommer testified prior to the regularly scheduled date of the hearing because he entered military service Jan. 28.

Detective Leo Bosch of the Appleton Police Department was the only other state's witness. He testified Tuesday that Sommer told him of buying the hashish from Sierlecki. He said Sommer gave him a written statement at the Neenah Police Department Dec. 27.

Bosch said he took the suspected drug to the Wisconsin State Crime Laboratory Dec. 28.

Thomas Cane, assistant district attorney, produced a certified report from the crime laboratory, stating the substance was a marijuana material.

Sierlecki was taken into custody by Appleton police at his apartment Jan. 17.

Office Hours Set by Byrnes in Courthouse

Rep. John Byrnes, R-Green Bay, will hold office hours at the Outagamie County Courthouse in Appleton from 9 a.m. to noon on Feb. 14.

No appointments are necessary.

number of speeches are planned.

The Jaycees cited Steiger in January for his service on the House Education and Labor Committee and his role in the passage of legislation, including the Older Americans Act.

Teen-Agers Steal Elderly Man's Food Stamps and Watch

KAUKAUNA — An elderly Kaukauna man reported to police that two teen-age boys stole his silver pocket watch and food stamps Monday night and threatened him with bodily harm after he let them into his home.

According to the man, the boys knocked on the door and asked if they could come in to get warm. After he let them in, they looked around the house until he ordered them to leave. They then advised him to remain in his chair and be quiet and he would not be hurt. After taking the watch and stamps, the youths left.

Kimberly, Xavier Remain 3-4; Beloit Continues to Lead

By BOB GREENE
Associated Press Sports Writer
Evansville knocked off two of its strongest rivals over the weekend and solidified its hold on the No. 1 spot in The Associated Press "little ten" high school basketball poll.

With victories over Oregon and McFarland, the Evansville Blue Devils upped their record to 14-0 and compiled 123 points. Wisconsin sportswriters and broadcasters vote in the poll with 10 points going to a first place vote, nine for second, etc.

North Crawford, Monticello, Gibraltar, Superior Cathedral and St. Croix Central all kept their records spotless as they continued to chase Evansville.

North Crawford, second in the poll, is 14-0; Monticello, third, is 13-0; fourth-ranked Gibraltar is 15-0; while Superior Cathedral, 16-0, and St. Croix Central, 13-0, are tied for sixth.

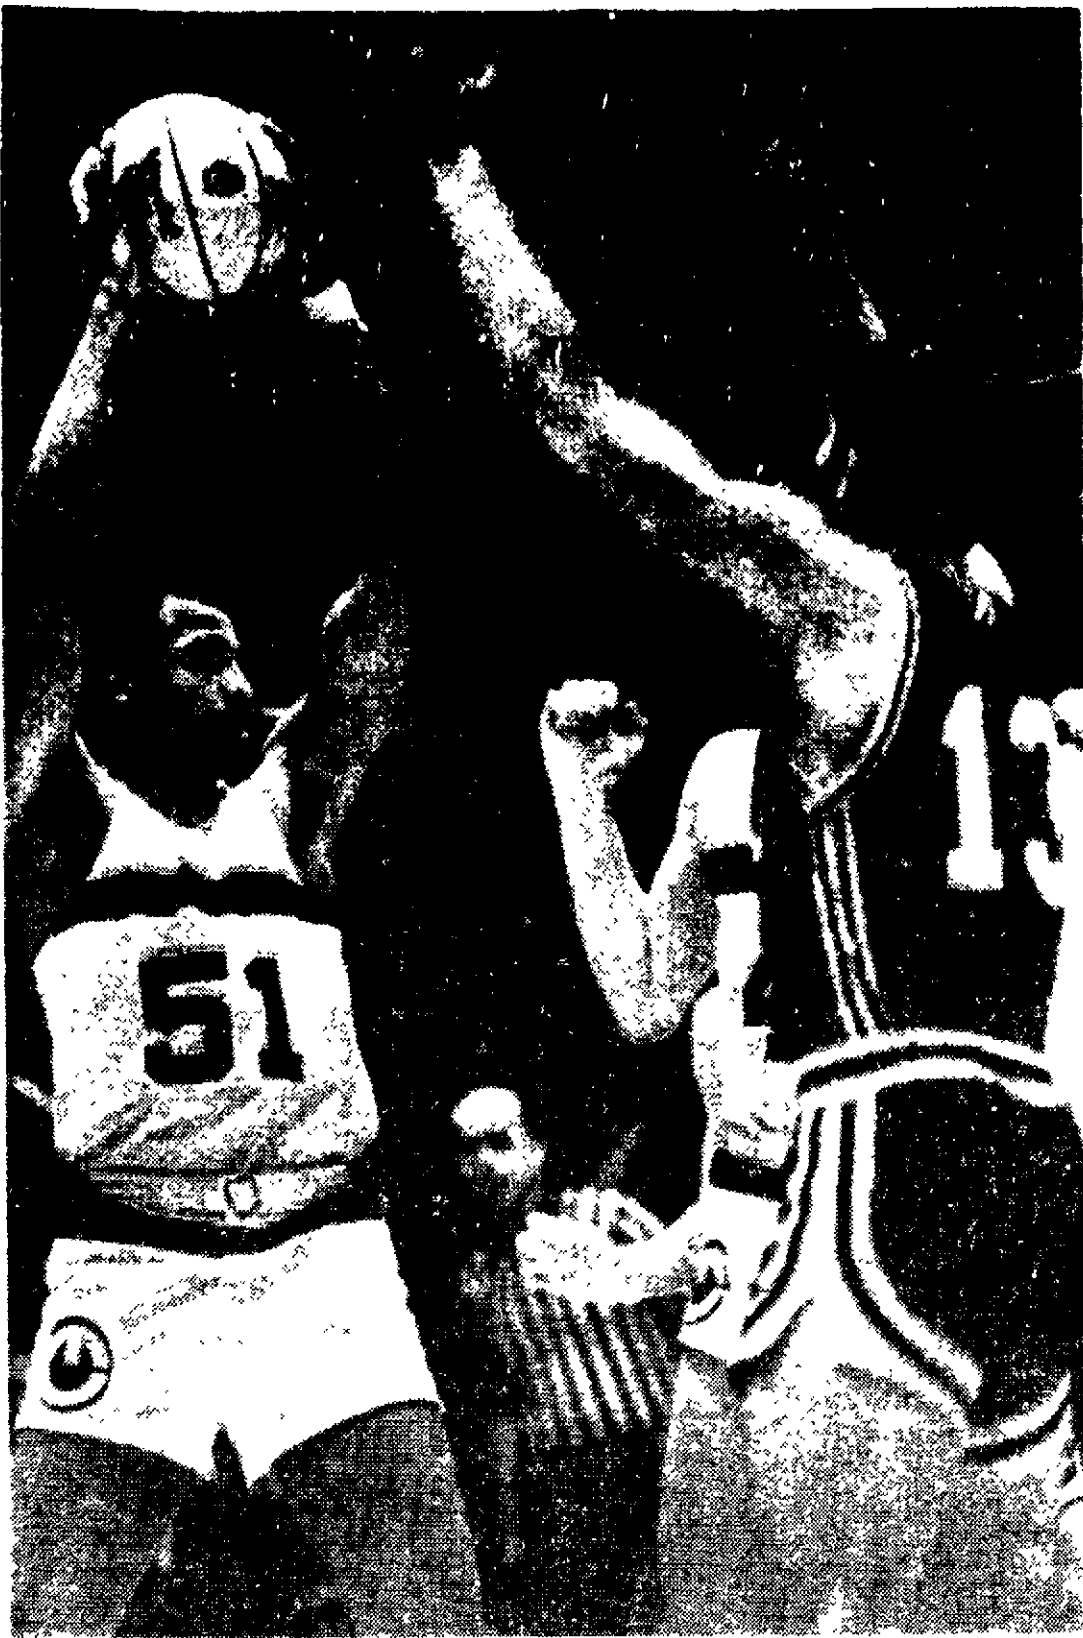

Initial Appearance
Tent-rated Marathon, 13-0, made its initial appearance in the "little ten," replacing Palmyra.

In the "big ten," Beloit, Racine St. Catherine, Kimberly, Appleton Xavier, Eau Claire Memorial and Schofield, all undefeated, claimed the top six spots, in order, for the second straight week.

Burlington, 13-0, edged up to seventh from eighth place, while Milwaukee Riverside jumped from 10th of eighth.

The biggest jump of the week was made by Beaver Dam Wayland, which came from nowhere

Bowie Kuhn Surprise Pick As Baseball Commissioner

Wall Street Lawyer Selected Unanimously by 24 Owners; Ordered to Restructure Sport

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
MIAMI (AP) — Bowie Kuhn, their right to some part of the a 42-year-old Wall Street lawyer who rose from a $1 per game scoreboard boy in Washington to a $100,000 a year job, is the new commissioner of all baseball.

Although Kuhn, a 6-foot-5½ inch, 230-pounder, is listed as the prr tem commissioner for one year only, he may very well wind up with a longer term.

Kuhn was a surprise unanimous choice by the 24 owners who voted him into office Tuesday with a mandate to restructure the sport in one year. He takes office immediately, succeeding William D. Eckert, who was forced to retire in December.

Kuhn, whose great grandfather was a governor of Maryland, has been a member of the law firm of Wilkie, Farr and Gallagher that has represented the National League since 1936. He comes from the same family for which Bowie Race Track in Maryland was named.

Princeton Grad

The choice of Kuhn, a Princeton grad who lives in Ridgewood, N.J., with his wife and four children, gives baseball a knowing champion to represent it in any future bouts with Congress over the legality of the reserve clause. Kuhn gained prominence within baseball for his role in the legal battle involving the move of the Milwaukee franchise to Atlanta.

Kuhn has represented the National League in negotiations with the players in a dispute that now threatens to result in a player strike over the pension plan. The new commissioner said he will disassociate himself as counsel for the player relations committee.

Francis Dale, president of the Cincinnati Reds, who announced Kuhn's election to newsmen, hailed the move as "a major breakthrough in baseball." Dale said "this may be the last time we will have separate caucuses by the two leagues."

Not Identified

Dale said the planning committee of the majors headed by Jerry Hoffberger, chairman of the board of the Baltimore Orioles, will make a report within a year "which might save that we do not need the office of a commissioner." Dale said Kuhn was one of half a dozen mentioned. He did not identify the others.

Asked to define the term "problem," Dale said "it means for the time being." He did not rule out the possibility that Kuhn, hired at $100,000 per year compared to Eckert's $65,000 salary, might remain on the job after one year.

Among the suggestions in the restructuring of the game are the consolidation of the American and National League offices as well as the minor leagues in one central office. Kuhn said the commissioner's office will remain in New York.

"I am honored and delighted to take over the immensely important job of leading baseball in a meaningful restructuring," said Kuhn. "I am very delighted at the unanimous 24 votes. This job can only be done with that kind of support. This demonstrates we are capable of moving ahead in a unified way to solve our problems."

The most important problem facing the new commissioner is the pension dispute with the players who have vowed not to sign contracts or report to spring training until the issue is resolved.

Extra $1 Million

The owners have offered an extra $1 million for an annual total of $5.1 million to the pension fund but the players reportedly want $7 million. The key to the dispute is the players' demand that the owners recognize their right to some part of the television money in the new three-year $9.5 million contract signed last year.

Although no mention was made of increasing the ante, it was expected that the owner's negotiator, John Gaherin, will come up with more money when negotiations resume Thursday.

Asked if he thought spring training would be on schedule, Kuhn said: "I would be surprised if it didn't get off as expected but I will not enter into any further player owner negotiations."

Bowie Kuhn

Kuhn, born in Takoma Park, Md., a suburb of Washington, D.C., attended Theodore Roosevelt High School in Washington, graduated from Princeton in 1948 and got his law degree from the University of Virginia in 1950. He was an ensign in the Navy in World War II.

"When I was a kid, I worked as a scoreboard operator for the Washington American League club at Griffith Stadium from about 1939 to 1945," said Kuhn. "I used to get $1 a game."

Jim Rinao to Coach Bears' Offensive Line

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Bears of the National Football League named Jim Rinao, former star center of the Green Bay Packers and Philadelphia Eagles, as offensive line coach Tuesday.

Coach Jim Dooley said Rinao, who retired after the 1967 season, was hired with the switch of Abe Giron from offensive line coach to head coach of the Redskins.

Robinson Hits 22 Bucks Record 107-98 Victory Over Bulls

CHICAGO (AP) — The Milwaukee Bucks pulled into their starting line-up Tuesday night, but had to rely on veterans to salvage a National Basketball Association victory.

The Bucks defeated the Chicago Bulls 107-98, Milwaukee's first victory in five attempts against the Windy City crew. It broke a seven-game losing streak.

Before intermission, Coach Larry Costello had replaced his rookies with more experienced talent, including Flynn Robinson whose 13 points helped the Bucks to a one-point halftime lead.

He ended the game with 22 points high for the team and matching the best output of a Chicagoan.

In the final period, during Creighton took an early lead and crushed their guests 97-71.

Oshkosh lost most of its top players through graduation, and has been out-manned through the current season.

Creighton's Bluejays led 51-31 at halftime, and ended the game with two leaders scoring 20 points each. High for Oshkosh was Jeff Stang with 20 points.

In other nonconference games, the Dominican Lakers rolled over Northwestern of Waterloo 100-64, and Milwaukee Tech defeated Lake Shore Tech of Sheboygan 103-91.

Lombardi in New York

Directors Expected To Release Vince From His Contract

By DICK COUCH

NEW YORK (AP) — Venerable Vince Lombardi, caught between National Football League chiefs after an uncharacteristic tumble, hopes to run to daylight — and Washington—tonight with the Green Bay Packers' reluctant blessing.

Lombardi, who said Monday he was leaving the Packers after 10 super seasons to become general manager, coach and part-owner of the Redskins—only to discover Green Bay had not sanctioned the defection arrived in neutral-ground New York Tuesday night to await the resolution of his dilemma.

The general manager, and former coach, of five NFL championship teams at Green Bay will attend an awards banquet here tonight while the Packers' board of directors meets to decide whether to let him out of a contract due to run through Jan. 31, 1974.

Anxious to Begin

The Green Bay directors are expected to turn him loose, with the provision that he not take any Packers assistant coaches with him this year. Lombardi, meanwhile, appears anxious to begin the job of rebuilding the Skins—but willing to ride out the storm whichever way it turns.

"I would hope they will release me, of course," he said at New York's LaGuardia Airport. "If they don't, then I'll be back in Green Bay next year."

Lombardi turned over the Packers coaching reins last winter to Phil Bengtson, his longtime aide, saying he had no intention of coaching again. He changed his mind after being courted by half a dozen pro clubs, when Washington offered him substantial stock in the club as well as the opportunity to alter the Redskins' image as losers.

The Skins have not had a winning season since 1955 when Lombardi was an assistant coach with the New York Giants. "Well, we'll try to change that," he said Tuesday night.

The Green Bay contract forbids Lombardi from coaching another club during its tenure, and the Green Bay directors including club President Dominic Olejczak, were miffed because they were not approached by the Redskins before the Master made his announcement Monday.

"According to pro football Commissioner Pete Rozelle's policy," Olejczak said, "any team wanting to talk to him would have to ask for permission from our team." No one did the Packers president said.

Lombardi's announcement late Monday afternoon, also left the Redskins and club president Edward Bennett Williams on the spot. Williams had reset a press conference from noon to 5 p.m. EST then was forced to admit he had no news to announce when the Packers failed to release Lombardi.

Despite the delicacy of the situation, Lombardi was in good spirits as he arrived in New York, where he will receive the Jack Mara Sportsman of the Year Award at the Catholic Youth Organization's annual banquet tonight. Mara the late president of the New York Giants hired Lombardi as an assistant coach when Lombardi was an aide to Earl "Red" Blaik at West Point.

Tuesday night Bill Austin, a former Lombardi assistant at Green Bay who was fired as head coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers last month, said he likely would rejoin the Master at Washington. "I have another offer but I'm tremendously indebted to Lombardi," he said. "He helped me get the Pittsburgh job."

"I hope things work out, but any announcement would have to come from Lombardi."

Lombardi, however, was confirming his announcements to the hope that his problem would be settled amicably and the insistence that there is no animosity between him and the Green Bay organization.

Someone suggested it would be only human for him to be resentful toward the Packers should they refuse to let him go. Lombardi shook his head and flashed the famous, clenched-teeth grin.

"Well," he said, "you know I've been accused of being a man before. Maybe this is part of it."

Bobcats Meet Marquette '6'

Third Brebner Cup Game Set Tonight In Green Bay

Revenge is the aim of the Green Bay Bobcats when they play host to the Marquette Iron Rangers in the third Brebner Cup Game at the Brown County Arena at 7:30 p.m. today.

The Iron Rangers evened the cup series at one game each when they stopped the Bobcats, 5-4 in Marquette last week. The Cats still hold a 1-goal advantage in the series. Green Bay won the first Brebner game, 4-2.

With their superiority over teams in the Mid-Eastern Conference even more clearly established than before, Kimberly's rampaging Papermakers go in search of a ninth straight league victim at Kaukauna Friday night.

For practical purposes, Kimberly sewed up the Mid-Eastern Conference title last week with its 76-38 walloping of Clintonville. The Truckers remained in second place with a 7-2 record.

Clintonville can clinch at least a tie for the runnerup spot Friday night if it can get past New London (1-7) on the Bulldogs' court. Carl Bruggink's outfit mauled their foe the first time around to the tune of 92-53.

Another M-E tilt pits Two Rivers (5-4) against Menasha (4-4) on the Bluejays' hardwood, where the Raiders will try to avenge a 56-53 loss. Shawano, currently in the M-E basement, takes a breather from conference play with a home engagement against Merrill.

The Clintonville-Kimberly meeting was expected to be much closer than the 77-57 Papermaker win earlier, but unfortunately for the Truckers, that happier circumstance never materialized.

After both teams got off to a slow start, Kimberly raced to a 31-17 halftime edge, then put the game out of reach with a 24-11 advantage in the third period.

"I think both teams were a little tight at the start,"

McGuire Still Upset, Even After Warriors Roll to 84-59 Victory

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Marquette University's 17th-ranked Warriors had little more than a workout Tuesday night. But Coach Al McGuire was still upset.

"I thought it was a lackluster affair," McGuire said of his team's crushing 84-59 victory over Northern Michigan.

Actually, the score was much closer than the game. Marquette dominated every phase, including turn-over. But the visitors were unable to cash in on their opportunities.

Not Mentally Alert

Only five Warriors—the starters—scored as Marquette showed its balance to perfection. Ric Cobb topped all scorers with 19 points, while George Thompson and Jeff Sewell had 17 apiece, Joe Thomas 16 and Dean Meminger 15.

For Northern Michigan, Dave Kovack scored 18 points and Ted Rose added 16.

"Northern's a better ball club than that," McGuire said after the game. "But we couldn't put anything together. We just weren't mentally alert. We lacked quickness."

McGuire said he was pleased with the play of Thomas, who was assigned to defense Rose. Northern's top scorer Joe, a junior, also picked off 19 rebounds to lead both clubs in that category.

Another pleasant development for McGuire was the shooting of Sewell, who finally resembled the hot-shooting long-range star he was in high school.

But, McGuire was far from satisfied.

"I was thoroughly disappointed in the game," he said. "We just can't seem to put a team away."

MADISON (AP)—With eight games still to go in their Big Ten basketball schedule, the University of Wisconsin Badgers have been reduced to the role of spoilers at best.

The Badgers suffered their fifth conference loss of the season 65-63 at the hands of Indiana Tuesday night. Wisconsin has only one Big Ten victory.

Earlier this week, Badger coach John Powless said five losses would eliminate his team from title contention. Indiana drove the clinching spike into that coffin.

Once again, the free throw they had no right to be tired from their sluggish display.

Indiana coach Lou Watson was pleased with his team's effort.

"This was our first road victory," he said, "and that's a big lift."

It was also the Hoosiers' fourth consecutive win, leaving them 3-3 in the Big Ten.

Watson credited his 1-3-1 offensive zone with being very decisive. Powless shared this view as he compared the play of Indiana center Ken Johnson with the great performance of Illinois' Greg Jackson against the Badgers last Saturday.

Johnson had 24 Tuesday while Jackson nit for 36 in Champaign.

The defeat left Wisconsin alone in the Big Ten

Lombardi Has Put His Stamp on Pro Football With Awesome Force

By BOB GREENE
GREEN BAY (AP) — Vin- cent Thomas Lombardi has served as general manager of put his stamp on professional football much the same way a volcano alters the Earth—with sheer, awesome force.

"I never could see any reason why we should lose," Lombardi once told the Football Writers Association of America. No one doubted him.

Lombardi arrived in Green Bay after the Packers had posted a miserable 1-10-1 record, their worst ever, in 1958. He said he was "no miracle man," yet forged a 7-5 record in 1959, won the divisional championship the following year, and then proceeded to capture National Football League titles in 1961, 1962, 1965, 1966 and 1967.

His nine-year coaching record was 141-39-4.

Kings Put End To St. Louis' Victory String

Red Wings Blank Philadelphia, 2-0, After Unusual Play

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Los Angeles put the squeeze on St. Louis' three-month unbeaten string against National Hockey League West Division competition Tuesday night. But it was nothing compared with what Detroit's Garry Unger did to Bernie Parent's bunt in Philadelphia.

LA erased a two-goal deficit and whipped St. Louis 4-2—the Blues' first loss in 20 games since Nov. 2 to a West Division team. Detroit blanked Philadelphia 2-0 in the only other NHL game played with Unger's early goal following Parents unusual bunt providing the margin.

The Blues, who had won 15 and tied four of their last 19 games against the West, jumped in front on early goals by Jim Roberts and Tim Ecclestone.

Narrows Lead
But the Kings came back with Gordon Labossiere narrowing the lead to 2-1 before the first period ended. Then Ted Irvine and Real Lemieux shot LA in front in the second period and Lowell Macdonald scored the third period wrapup goal.

Despite the loss, St. Louis remained 20 points ahead of second place Oakland in the West race.

Parent, Philadelphia's goalie, skated out of his net to clear a loose puck out of danger in the first period against the Red Wings. But he only nudged the puck a few feet—about as far as a bunt—and Unger grabbed it.

The young center's 30-foot shot sailed into the unprotected net for the marker goalie. Roy Edwards needed to gain his second shutout victory of the year.

FVL Javvees in 81-42 Triumph

Five starters scored in double figures as Fox Valley Lutheran swamped Menasha St. Mary, 81-42, in recent javvee basketball action.

The junior Foxes, who hiked their season record to 10-6 and avenged an earlier 45-43 defeat, raced to a 42-17 halftime lead.

Jeff Grow and Eric Troge each had 15 points for the winners. Teammates Bill Lecker, Dennis Kasten, and Dave Romberg added 14, 13, and 12 points respectively. Tim Wainscott, of St. Mary's took game honors with 22 markers, and Jeff Kettenhofen chipped in with 12.

Big E, Big O Star at Astrodome Record Crowd at NBA Tilts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
turned out in Houston's Astro-dome to watch San Diego beat Boston 135-126 behind Elvin "Big E" Hayes' 32 points and high. But the promoters said the Cincinnati down Detroit 125-114 announced crowd was higher than the turnstile count because some fans who bought tickets stayed home when they learned that Bill Russell, Boston's player-coach, was injured and wouldn't play.

Phoenix Wins
In other games, Phoenix stunned Philadelphia 125-116, New York's red-hot Knicks crushed Atlanta 122-97, Seattle knocked off San Francisco 116-111 and Milwaukee stopped Chicago 107-98.

Minnesota whipped Denver 112-99 and Indiana routed New Orleans 138-117 in the American Basketball Association.

It was a triumphant return to Houston for Hayes, a rookie pro who was college basketball's Player of the Year last season. He scored 39 points as the Cougars turned back UCLA in the Astrodome before 52,693.

Boston led 67-53 at the half but San Diego bolted to a 104-92 lead as Jim Barnett scored 15 points in the third period. Barnett finished with 31.

Not Same Club
"Boston is not the same club without Russell," Hayes said. "They can't do the things they want to especially on defense, without him."

In the opener, Robertson and Wall Wesley led a fourth-period burst that enabled Cincinnati to break away from Detroit. They scored nine points apiece during a five-minute span.

NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy was pleased with the league's first venture into the Astrodome.

"We definitely will be back again," he said. "This is a great place for a spectacular, but it would not lend itself to regular game play. Most basketball is better when confined to a smaller arena."

Cincinnati Coach Ed Jucker agreed that players like to have "the roar of the crowd up close." But, he added, "The Astrodome is great for referees. Nobody in the crowd can get on them."

Furious Rally
Phoenix held off a furious Philadelphia rally to prevent the second-half 76ers from gaining on Baltimore's Eastern Division leaders. Jim Fox and Dick Van Arsdale scored 25 points apiece, for the Suns. Billy Cunningham had 36 for the 76ers, who trailed at halftime 71-46.

New York moved into a virtual tie with the 76ers by ripping off 15 straight points for a 17-4 lead in the opening minutes and breezing past Atlanta Bill Bradley netted 25 points and Willie Reed 24 as the Knicks won their sixth straight, 17th in a row at home and 23rd in the last 27 games.

Tom Meschery came back to haunt his former San Francisco teammates with 20 points, 16 in the second half, as Seattle rallied to defeat the Warriors. Len Wilkens led the Sonics with 28 points.

Among teams listed in the "special mention" category are Amherst, Kimberly, and Seymour.

Friday's Games: Omro at Reedsville, Freedom at Brillion, Winnecoonne at Hilbert, Hortonville at Wrightstown, Denmark at Shiocton.

"I said at the beginning of the year that this was the game it would all hinge upon. Unless we want to share the title, we have to bump them off."

"That call to battle comes from Omro basketball coach Allen Knurr, whose Foxes face their roughest task of the season Friday night when they invade Reedsville's gymnasium. Omro, ranked No. 6 in last week's small-school prep poll, will be out to protect their Little Nine Conference lead when the two clubs collide. The Foxes own an unblemished 9-0 record in the league to date, while the Panthers are a step behind at 8-1.

The featured tilt at Reedsville overshadows these other league games the same evening: Freedom at Brillion, Winnecoonne at Hilbert, Hortonville at Wrightstown, and Denmark at Shiocton.

Only Meeting The Foxes-Panthers duel will be the only one between the two teams for the season. Knurr

Raiders Pick John Madden Head Coach

At 33, Former Aide Will be Youngest of Professional Mentors

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Raiders apparently have the talent of taking young, relative unknowns, making them head coach and then watching them move on to bigger things. Third in that line is John Madden, the man the Raiders named Tuesday to replace John Rauch as head coach. Rauch resigned to take the head coaching job with the Buffalo Bills of the American Football League.

The announcement of Madden, 33, was made by Al Davis, who started as a Raider coach and is now the front office boss.

Madden will be the youngest head coach in professional football when he takes over the post of a team that has won an AFL title and a Western Division title the last two years.

An assistant with the Raiders the past two seasons, Madden coached linebackers and he developed such top performers as Dan Conners, Gus Otto and Ralph Oliver.

Three assistant coaches, Ollie Spencer, Tom Dahms and John Polonchek, will be retained, Davis said. Replacements will soon be found for Madden and Charley Sumner, who resigned two weeks before Rauch, he said.

Director Bob Fosse Started Career Early

Wise Father Saw Show Business Interest;

Dance Lessons Led to Stage, Choreography

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — As a small lad in Chicago, Bob Fosse liked to entertain visitors to his family home by putting on an act he called "Tarzan Wrestling the Lion."

"I was pretty obnoxious, I guess," he recalled with a grimace. "I shaved our collie to make him look more like a lion. Then I hid some ketchup behind a chair and doused myself with it in the middle of the act."

After watching this bloody living room drama several times, Bob's father, a salesman who had spent a year as a vaudeville singer earlier in life, decided his son was destined for show business. So he sent Bob to dancing school at the age of 8.

Today, at 40, Fosse, who first served his apprenticeship on the night club circuit, is one of the nation's most brilliant directors and choreographers.

He has won five Tony Awards on Broadway as director or choreographer, or both, for such musicals as "Damn Yankees," "Pajama Game," "Bells Are Ringing," "Redhead," "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying," and "Sweet Charity."

"Sweet Charity," starring Shirley MacLaine, marks Bob's debut as a film director. He also directed the stage version which starred his wife, Gwen Verdon.

Fosse admits to more than a touch of buck fever in his first film directional venture. "Everything about the film is so mammoth . . . so much money . . . every moment costing X-number of dollars . . . so many people on the sets . . . that it tends to overwhelm a fellow with a middle-class background," he said, smiling.

"But if the pressure gets to you, your talent can't function. If you let yourself be hurried, you lose your inventiveness. You have to forget those other things, lower your head and go ahead."

Bob was impressed by the discovery that a film director has much more power than a stage director.

"On stage," he said, "a director can't change a word without the writer's consent. In films, a director can drop whole scenes if he chooses to."

"But power is always dangerous. If a director overuses it, he can start indulging his every whim—and so can the cast."

"On the other hand, if you underuse that power, you lose control. The picture can be taken away from you by the actors, the cameramen, or the studio itself. A director has to use his authority so that he is creative but not self-indulgent."

Fosse, blonde, slightly balding, and trim-figured, works with a half-smoked cigarette eternally dangling from his lips. He is patient, soft-spoken, and has a philosophic turn of mind.

"I became a choreographer in self-defense," he remarked. "I didn't like the dances that were being choreographed for me, so I started doing my own."

"It's really quite a bit like writing, where you start with a

Retarded Boy Stars in Hall of Fame

BY TV SCOUT

7:30-9 Channel 5 — Viewers will have a memorable and heart-tugging experience watching "Teacher, Teacher" on the Hallmark Hall of Fame. It features a remarkable performance from 13-year-old Billy Schulman, a retarded child who makes his acting debut. He carries the burden of the show along with David McCallum.

He is very good as the boy's private tutor. He's a self-styled "excellent teacher" who has personal problems. Ossie Davis is well cast as a former bomber turned handymen. The major conflict in the story is between McCallum, who presses in his ability to teach the child, and Davis who, just by being himself, instructs the youngster. At the end of the show, McCallum talks directly to the audience about retardation, then moved by the child he breaks up on camera.

Turn-On is a new series by the producers of Laugh-In, who are not trying to imitate their big success, but extend it. This is almost psychedelic in its approach, using flashing lights, animation, cartoon strips, odd costuming and make-up and one stark white setting which is so brilliant it tends to give an illusory effect. There are even people. Tim Conway is guest-host, yacking it up with a cast of 12 regulars, in the same manner as Laugh-In.

8-9 Channel 5 — If you remember the beauty of Gordon Jenkins' record hit, "Manhattan Towers," you can imagine the sentimental beauty of "What It Was, Was Love" on The Kraft Music Hall. It stars Steve Lawrence and Eydie Gorme in a program adapted from a recent album, also composed by Jenkins. The program tells the story of the couple's courtship, marriage and maturing romance over a 25 year period.

6:30-7:30 Channel 11 — Here Come the Brides is alive with political maneuvering and election hysteria. Titled "Democracy in Action," it's all about Seattle's first mayoralty campaign with the major problem being whether or not to give the ladies a vote. When the opposing candidates, Jason and Stemple, both realize they need the ladies' support, they agree to let them vote, but by this time the gals have thoughts of their own about the campaign, like running their own candi-

6:30-7:30 Channel 2 — Pat Paulsen is again the comedy highlight on The Glen Campbell Good Time Hour, while the program's star again walks off with the musical honors. He introduces Jeannie C. Riley, who won fame with "Harper Valley P.T.A.," but sings "The Girl Most Likely" here. Harper Valley figures in the comedy, however, with Paulsen the principal of a school there explaining his eccentricities.

9-10 Channel 5 — The Outsider is so well done, especially in its exterior location shots, that it can take the most predictable and trite stories and still make them good. The lovely daughter of a millionaire has flown the coop to do some adventure and fun seeking with some jet set pals. Ross is hired to find her and takes off for Mexico in pursuit.

9-10 Channel 2 — Hawaii Five-O has a surprise, a newcomer named Paul Collins who steals the thunder from veteran Farley Granger. The story concerns the employees of a multimillion dollar, family-owned industry amalgamation. Several are killed, the others threat-

ARCTIC Cat RACING REPORT

ARCTIC CAT CAPTURES WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP

40,000 Attend Eagle River Snowmobile Derby

In one of the wildest and most courageous displays of competitive driving, Arctic Cat's Factory Racing Team swept the first five places in the World's Championship Snowmobile Race at Eagle River, Wis., Sunday, Jan. 19.

In the time trials Friday to qualify for 10 starting positions for Sunday's 16-lap race, the fastest times were recorded by six Arctic Cats and four Ski-Dos. But when the big race was about to begin, it appeared hard-luck Arctic driver, Roger Janssen of Crookston, Minn., might not be able to take the starter's flag.

As the ten machines took the parade lap, Janssen's machine sputtered and stopped near the fourth turn. On the restart, Janssen, high in the first turn, was hit from behind, tossed off his machine and struck in the leg by an approaching machine. Not to be denied a crack at the big prize, Janssen and his pit crew worked frantically to straighten out the frame, which had jammed against the machine's running track in the accident.

By the time they took the flag on the third start, it was clearly evident that the wiry little grain farmer from Crookston, Minn., had only one thing on his mind — TO WIN! He led the pack through the always harried first turn for an early lead that was never to be challenged.

Last year's world champion, Steve Ave of Duluth, stayed close on his Ski-Doo until he flipped coming through the third turn on the 10th lap. For the next few seconds, each spectator at that end of the track had his heart in his mouth. Ave's throttle stuck and his run-away machine spun crazily toward the crowd and on-coming race traffic. With Ave in hot pursuit, the machine took an unexpected turn toward the infield, hit a snowbank and came to rest upside down at the edge of the track.

The logo features the words "ARCTIC CAT" in a small sans-serif font above the word "Panther" in a large, stylized script font, all enclosed within a teardrop-shaped border. Below the logo is a black and white photograph of a man wearing a helmet and goggles, driving a snowmobile. The snowmobile has "ARCTIC CAT" written on its side.

With Ave out, the final six laps were all Arctic.

Finishing second with only one ski was Charlie Lofton, Thief River Falls, who captured $1,050 in prize money. In third place was Wayne Burkell, also of Thief River Falls, who earned $630. Fourth and fifth places, respectively, went to Roger Hible, Thief River Falls, and Dewey Paulson, Brooklyn Center, Minn. The sixth Arctic Cat driver in the race, Ken Beito, Thief River Falls, was forced out of the race in the third lap with mechanical difficulties.

For his efforts, Janssen won $2,520 first prize money, a Porsche sports car and a trip to Europe from the makers of Rockwell-Jlo engines (Janssen's engine was a modified 744 c.c.Jlo), three trophies, a set of tools and $1,200 cash from other sponsors, including $500 from host Arctic Cat distributor, Sparky Meyer, of Neenah, Wis.

Nixon Paying More Attention To De Gaulle

First Overseas Trip Evidently
To be to France

PARIS (AP) — French officials are hoping that President Nixon's coming trip to Europe will demonstrate that he is loosening the tight ties between American and British policies and is prepared to pay more attention to the views of President Charles de Gaulle.

The French expect Nixon to come to Paris first, in March, altering the practice of other postwar presidents of meeting with Britain's prime minister before consulting the other European allies.

Since the wartime days when he had to contend with the Roosevelt-Churchill combine, De Gaulle has resented the special relationship that they established between London and Washington. French officials say putting France first on Nixon's itinerary might be an indication that he has a new view of the relative importance of America's top European allies.

Wilson Discouraged
They bolster this view by citing reports that the new President discouraged British Prime Minister Harold Wilson from flying to Washington before Nixon's trip to Europe.

Diplomatic sources say the groundwork for Nixon's visit to France was laid in a secret exchange of letters between Nixon and De Gaulle before the American was inaugurated.

Authoritative sources said Nixon wrote De Gaulle on Jan. 11 that he was looking forward to "talking directly" with the French leader about problems facing the Western nations and would "take into account France's advice."

The sources said De Gaulle replied he would "be happy to discuss any questions you want." However, diplomats here believe the chances for Nixon to secure modification of De Gaulle's policy—particularly toward admission of Britain to the European Common Market and increased French participation in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization—are dependent on Nixon's reception of De Gaulle's ideas for reform of NATO and the international monetary system.

Across the channel in Britain, the newspaper The Guardian, took a considerably different view of the situation. It said the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia and the French franc crisis suggest that Nixon "will find Gen. de Gaulle less hostile to NATO than he was two years ago."

Common Interests
The new British ambassador to Washington, John Freeman, said in London Tuesday that if a special relationship exists between his country and the United States, "then it is because we have a lot of interlocking and common interests... and we are useful to one another."

Freeman, who will replace Sir Patrick Dean on Feb. 21, added, "We sometimes, perhaps, tend to expect too much of the United States. The United States, perhaps, tends sometimes to think too little of us." He said he plans a thorough study of "the whole field of Anglo-American relations."

President Urges Fast OK of Nuclear Treaty

Action Seen
As Helpful to Soviet Ties

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon asked the Senate today to ratify the nuclear non-proliferation treaty promptly. He said such action would further his goal "of negotiation rather than confrontation with the U.S.S.R."

Nixon, in a message to the Senate, recalled urging delay in ratification of the treaty last fall because of the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia.

"My request at this time in no sense alters my condemnation of that Soviet action," he said.

In seeking "prompt consideration and positive action" on the nonproliferation treaty, Nixon said:

"I believe that ratification of the treaty at this time would advance this administration's policy of negotiation rather than confrontation with the U.S.S.R. 'Important Step'"

"I believe that the treaty can be an important step in our endeavor to curb the spread of nuclear weapons and that it advances the purposes of our arms for peace program which I have supported since its inception during President Eisenhower's administration."

Nixon endorsed a commitment by the Johnson administration to allow the International Atomic Energy Agency "to apply its safeguards to all nuclear activities in the United States, exclusive of those activities with direct national security significance."

The Chief Executive also restated the government's willingness to join other nations in programs to make available to non-nuclear countries "potential benefits from peaceful applications of nuclear explosions."

Nixon also said his administration will continue this year to make available a 50 per cent advance payment to participants in the feed grains program—an action in keeping with past practice but one which outgoing President Lyndon B. Johnson suggested be dropped.

"We feel farmers are entitled to proper and sufficient notice about any change in the ground rules on such payments," Nixon said in a statement. "Many of them are already beginning to sign up for the program."

The moves were discussed at a lengthy conference Nixon held with Republican congressional leaders.

Afterwards, Senate GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen and House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford made these further announcements:

—Nixon will submit to Congress in mid-February special messages on tax reform and changes in the presidential election process.

—If negotiations fail to end the continuing dock strike, Nixon told the leaders, he may have to propose legislation dealing with national emergency strikes.

—Before making a contemplated trip to Europe soon, Nixon will meet in advance with both Democratic and Republican leaders from Congress and he will hold a similar session following his return.

—The President plans a series of reorganization efforts within government, provided Congress extends expiring legislation giving him authority in that field.

Said Dirksen, without getting into specifics: "There probably will be more reorganization plans in this administration than in any other."

Advance payments under the feed grain program were begun eight years ago, to tide farmers over a period of slack income. Dirksen said such payments were particularly necessary this year because of the high interest rates and limited credit that would face farmers who might be forced to borrow money in the absence of advance payments.

The President estimated his decision would add $168 million to spending in the fiscal year that ends June 30.

He emphasized that advance payments would be made only in 1969 but Dirksen suggested that the practice probably would be continued should tight credit conditions continue.

Dirksen and Ford gave no clue of the scope of the tax revisions Nixon will urge in his forthcoming message.

Profile of Despair

Hijackers' Glory Is Short-Lived

BY LEN FUNK

Associated Press Writer

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — His life has been a nightmare of frustration and failure. Mentally, he is overwhelmed by his own problems, tortured by the unrest abroad in the world. Life, black and ugly, offers him nothing but despair.

Before he goes, he must stage one big, dramatic play—some thing that will restore the long-lost respect of family and friends, raise him above the faceless mob, give him back some semblance of pride.

He has nothing to lose.

High in the sky, he pulls a gun and muscles his way into the cockpit of an airliner.

"Cuba!" he barks. "Cuba!" the loud voice masks his fear. His finger is nervous on the trigger.

Almost mockingly, the pilot obeys the command, swinging south for Havana. He must do nothing that could possibly irritate or frighten the gunman and touch off a shooting that could set up a disaster.

The captain no longer is in charge. The skyjacker is the master of the great craft and all its passengers. For once in a miserable life, he has found his moment of power. Now the world will take notice of him.

Back to Oblivion

But the glory is short-lived. The plane touches down at Jose Marti Airport. Cuban militiamen surround it. The hijacker surrenders his gun. He is led away into oblivion. Once again, he is a faceless nobody, now lost in a Communist society.

He is the phenomenon of his age, and he is one of many—the ne'er-do-well, the criminal fugitive, the military deserter, the exile devoured by his homesickness, the hopeless, Most are young men and all share one common agony—minds in turmoil.

Behind the guns, the knives and the grenades, the skyjackers are a varied lot, but they break down into definite types.

The tearful: a shaggy-haired youth of 19 told the stewardess of a National Airlines plane he was afraid he would be sent to Vietnam. "I don't want to go there," he cried. "I don't want to kill!"

The ne'er-do-well: Willie Jesse, 25, was a U.S. Army deserter and a failure divorced by his wife, Cuba, he thought might offer him "a future" so he hijacked a private plane, taking his two-year-old daughter, Patricia, with him. Five months later, he made his way back. "I know I will have to go to jail," he said, "but my only hope now is for a future for my daughter."

The mental case: Oran Richards, 33, told the crew of a Delta plane he was dying of cancer and babbled that "the Masons are injecting me with light rays." Sobbing, he dropped his gun, was captured by the crew and has since been committed to an institution.

The fugitive: Lawrence Rhodes, facing kidnapping and armed robbery charges in West Virginia, told a Delta stewardess "I face the electric chair, anyway. I've got nothing to lose."

The militant: the Negro wore the uniform of the Black Panther movement—black beret, black jacket and boots. "Black Power!" he shouted. "Black Power!"

The subversive: Three gunmen took over a Colombian airliner and forced it to Cuba. They were Castro agents, said Bugota newspapers, going home after a mission to stir up trouble in Colombia. The hijacker of another plane said, "Fidel has ordered me back. This is the easiest way to go."

The homesick: Mario Velazquez Fonseca had fled Cuba on a home-made raft. Now, a year later, he was going back. Holding a gun on a stewardess, he told her, "the homesickness is eating me up."

HONOLULU (AP) — Archie police in Hilo that when the Eugene Evans, 33, insisted it per DC8 was 24 minutes from was a joke. But authorities Hawaii. Evans summoned her didn't think it was very funny and said, "Tell the pilot there's when he allegedly told a United man back here with a gun. Evans was arraigned before U.S. Commissioner Henry W. C. Wong in Honolulu Tuesday night under a charge that he "imparted false information regarding piracy of an aircraft while aboard United Airlines Flight 205 en route from San Francisco, to Honolulu via Hilo."

The FBI described Evans as a Portland, Ore., salesman. The Honolulu Star-Bulletin said he had been a resident of Hawaii for four years until last month and had received a master's degree from the University of Hawaii.

3-Nation Force To Guarantee Asian Peace?

Japan, Indonesia,
Burma Suggested
In Study by Allies

PARIS (AP) — U.S. and South Vietnamese negotiators are studying proposals for a three-nation peace force of Asian neutrals to guarantee any Vietnam peace settlement, diplomatic sources reported today.

The nations most frequently mentioned are Japan, Indonesia and Burma. These and other Asian countries have been discreetly sounded out by the United States, the sources said.

American and South Vietnamese delegates in Paris have spent much time in private consultations on how to enforce a settlement. As far as is known the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong have not participated in such discussions.

The diplomats said the proposal probably will not be voiced at the peace conference until there is some progress toward a settlement. The third session of four-way talks is scheduled Thursday.

The conference is deadlocked because Hanoi and the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front refuse to discuss military de-escalation without simultaneously discussing a political settlement for South Vietnam, and Saigon insists the conference has no right to discuss South Vietnam's internal affairs.

Despite the deadlock both sides seem to agree on the need to revive and revise key provisions of the 1954 Geneva agreements that ended the French Indochina war. These partitioned Vietnam "provisionally" at the 17th parallel and set up an International Control Commission made up of Canada, Poland and India.

The ICC, based on the "Troupine" principle of one representative sympathetic to each side plus one neutral, was paralyzed from the start. The Canadian delegate invariably voted in sympathy with Saigon, the Polish delegate in sympathy with Hanoi, and the Indian usually abstained.

Go-Ahead Is Given for Work On Successor to Ill-Fated F111

WASHINGTON (AP) — Years behind and millions of dollars poorer, the Navy has started anew to develop a carrier-based jet fighter capable of intercepting enemy bombers attacking the fleet.

The Navy failed in an expensive previous effort to build a fleet defender from the old TFX warplane design expected by former Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara to provide one basic plane that could be adopted by all services.

That was the F111B aircraft, started in 1962 and canceled last year when it proved unable to meet Navy specifications for carrier operations.

Pentagon figures show the Navy spent $216.5 million on developing the F111B.

With little fanfare, the Navy announced Tuesday that Grumman Aircraft, builder of a few test models of the F111B, was getting a four-year, $388 million award for preproduction planning on a new job called the F14.

Like the ill-fated F111B, the F14 or VFX as it was called in initial paperwork, will have a swing wing and a fancy new missile system for its intercept mission.

$3 Billion Lost

Once the F14 research and development is completed, the Navy plans to pick up an option to build 463 models at a cost estimated officially at $7.3 billion each—or over $3.3 billion in all.

Hundreds more F14s may be ordered after that initial run, expanding the overall program to perhaps $5 billion or more.

The F111B failed to serve Navy purposes because, among other things, it weighed too much—more than 80,000 pounds—which made it cumbersome for movement around carriers and too sluggish for its interceptor role.

To avert the excess weight problems this time, a Grumman representative told a newsmen, the company plans to keep the F14 weight below 60,000 pounds, mainly through use of the lightweight but powerful titanium, the expensive new metal that McNamara refused to authorize for the F111 series.

In spite of its failure, the Navy plans to build on the F111B in perfecting a successor.

Equipped With Missile

The F14 will have the same swing-wing which can be swept back for supersonic flight or extended almost at right angles to the fuselage for slow, easy landings on short carrier decks.

Like the F111B, the F14 will

Institute at Clintonville Ponders Farm Image

CLINTONVILLE — The image of agriculture must be improved by better public relations, more sales promotion and more advertising, Floyd V. Doering, supervisor of agriculture education, State Department of Public Instruction, Tuesday told persons attending the annual Farm Institute.

Doering said he was concerned that "Some people do not look at the opportunities existing in the broad field of agriculture and only see where farm numbers are unquestionably decreasing."

He felt the agricultural industry often was its own enemy in the image effort. "Too often the public hears only the differing voices of agriculture castigating one another not in an atmosphere of commercial competition but in a plea for privilege of protection from each other."

Farm Stereotype
"Consequently much of agriculture's audience has stopped listening and fallen back on the stereotype of the farm as a pleasant place to spend the summer vacation or a place where a man in a straw hat and patched bib overalls keeps some pigs and cows and grows grain."

He noted that the state was a pacesetter in vocational agriculture instruction in high schools. The programs at Chippewa Falls, Neillsville and Oshkosh are in their 52nd year, Clintonville in its 45th, Bear Creek 25, New London, 35, Manawa 39 and Marion 34.

"If we look at the present program of vocational agriculture we can readily see that our enrollments are in excellent shape and the program is progressing at unprecedented levels. Nine pilot programs in the area on non-farm agricultural occupations are currently underway and an additional seven programs are being added during the next school year," he said.

He warned, however, that "We have placed far too much pressure on some by insisting that in order for them to be successful and happy, they must attend college. Lacking the ability and opportunity to do so, they would be far better off to stay away. We need better counseling of students, especially vocational guidance."

Broken Main Floods Basements In Weyauwega

WEYAUWEGA — A water main broke in the 300 block of West Main Street Tuesday morning flooding basements in the area.

The city crew was able to find the leak without difficulty and close the water valve for that main.

St. Peter's Lutheran School was closed due to the flooding of four to five feet of water in the basement which is used for the hot lunch program.

Property owners in the area reported from three to four feet in their basements.

Travel on Main Street was stopped for a short time because of water running on the streets.

"Let's Find Out Why they're using drugs," says Dr. Darrel Treffert, superintendent of Winnebago State Hospital, Monday night as he outlines plans for a drug abuse information pilot program to combat narcotics use in Appleton. Message Is Frightening

Adults Listen to Young Drug Users

You have to listen to the kids who are on drugs:

"It was great the first time I took LSD. It just turned me on. Everything seemed a lot clearer. It makes me feel more myself. I'm more alive. I look prettier."

The 16-year-old girl's voice was wan and helpless. She has been on a bum trip for two years. Her trip took her to Winnebago State Hospital and she is still there.

You have to listen to these kids:

"Things don't seem real. Everything is all right." Marijuana solves problems, "like not being able to get along with people — at home, with teachers. My parents are too strict. Everything has got to be their way, for them. And it is the same way with me."

Year at Hospital
This girl is 16 too. She has been at the state hospital for a year.

Listen again:
"You know people who like it, and you don't hear from people who don't like it. So you try it. I don't know anyone who has taken it and hasn't liked it."

Normal Party
"It is just a normal party," he said, "except you enjoy it a lot more."

"People who smoke marijuana grew up with the culture of blacks standing on the corner with nothing to do but smoke grass."

"Outside people don't mean what they are saying. They ask 'How are you?', but they don't care how you are. At other parties people don't talk. They talk about trivial things."

"Liquor is used as a defense, and it just builds up the defenses. Pot makes you feel closer to people."

Would Use it Again
The girl on the two-year LSD trip would like to use the drug again—"to see if it would help me." She said, "I'm pretty messed up right now." But she was sure LSD had nothing to do with her getting messed up. Dr. Treffert believes differently.

The other girl has learned her lesson about the hard drugs. "I learned the hard way," she said. She took speed once and it scared her. "I am against speed now," she said. "It wrecks your mind."

But she doesn't think marijuana is bad. "It's just like getting drunk. That's what it means to me."

Judicial Council Focuses On 3-County Court Trouble

Rural Amherst Slaying

New Trial Asked For Mark Leroux

MADISON — Circuit Court Judge Lowell D. Schoengarth, Neillsville, has been appointed by the State Supreme Court to hear a motion for a new trial for Mark Leroux, the rural Amherst youth convicted of murdering his parents a year ago.

Schoengarth said Leroux's legal counsel was filing motions on alleged trial errors and alleged violation of constitutional rights. The hearing, including oral arguments, will be held "within two months" and presumably at the Portage County courthouse in Stevens Point, he said.

Leroux, who is serving a life sentence in the state prison at Waupun, was convicted of shooting his parents Nov. 9, 1967, in their upstairs bedroom. The Leroux home, four miles south of Amherst, was destroyed by fire after the shooting.

The victims were Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Leroux. Leroux, 42, was a retired Navy veteran who was employed for the Wisconsin Telephone Co. His wife, Mary, 38, had worked in an area restaurant.

A daughter, Jeanette, 16, escaped the burning house with her brother. She had been sleeping in a downstairs bedroom.

Schoengarth said this morning he will study the motions and hear oral arguments before deciding on a retrial. If he denies the motions, the defendant could appeal to the State Supreme Court, Schoengarth said.

Expenditure Survey View

State Economy Endangered

NEW LONDON — Coming on the heels of federal and local property tax increases, the demands of state government agencies for more money are placing Wisconsin's economic future in grave danger, Philip H. Nelson, Oshkosh, a representative of the Public Expenditure Survey of Wisconsin, told the New London Lions Club Tuesday.

The Survey is a private nonpolitical, nonprofit government research and service agency for statewide and community taxpayer organizations. Nelson advocated aggressive taxpayer action to combat administrators and public officials who seem to feel that regularity in tax increases is a way of life.

50 Per Cent Hike
"State department requests to the governor involve an increase of almost two-thirds of a billion dollars, or 50 per cent, over the $1.18 billion spending for the 1967-69 period," Nelson said.

He said the proposed general purpose revenue spending increase is the equivalent of the income from a 70 per cent individual income surtax or adding 8 per cent to the present 3 per cent sales tax.

"Such a prospect is not only frightening, it appears thoroughly unrealistic and fails to recognize that we still must leave some money in the hands of the private sector of the economy to enable the tax base to grow," Nelson said.

Nelson stated members of the Special Taxpayers Committee on the State Budget appeared in opposition to some excessive requests in December when Gov. Warren P. Knowles met with state agencies to review the 1969-71 requests.

Education Costs
He said the taxpayers pointed out that tax costs requested for higher education institutions increased twice as much as the enrollments on a percentage basis and neither the University of Wisconsin nor the state

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Northeastern Wisconsin court problems received a thorough airing in the state capitol Tuesday as the state Assembly and the Judicial Council turned their attentions toward solutions to problems in Winnebago, Calumet and Waupaca counties.

In separate actions, the assembly judiciary committee considered a bill offered by Assemblyman Jack Steinhilber, R-Oshkosh, on court docket crowding in the Calumet and Winnebago Circuit Court, while the council told Gov. Warren P. Knowles that it would not take a position on a contested court in Waupaca County.

Steinhilber's bill would speed up the start of the term of the second branch of the circuit court from January, 1970, to July, 1969.

Judge Candidates
Campaigns for the court post are now going on, and an election to fill the branch created by the 1967 Legislature will be conducted in April.

Steinhilber said that the court docket is extremely crowded, especially since the death of Judge Arnold Cane.

Currently there are 373 cases pending, said Steinhilber. The state court commissioner has been helpful in sending in extra judges to the circuit, but the backlog keeps building, the lawmaker told the committee.

The Winnebago County budget for the coming year includes the extra expense of the new court opening earlier than originally planned. A courtroom and chambers for the new judge also are now being prepared, according to Steinhilber.

The changed date, coupled with a five and one half year the 1959 state open meeting law. Under a 1941 statute, such boards can now lapse into committee of the whole sessions and exclude the public whenever they wish. The intent of the 1959 law was to force all public bodies in the state to allow public attendance at all session, with severely limited exceptions mainly dealing with personnel and real estate.

"There is no function of government that is more important than education," said Froehlich. "There is no function of government that spends more money or has more influence than education. There is no reason why those who do this business can't do it in public," said the Speaker.

He termed the bill "corrective in nature."

No opposition was expressed at the public hearing.

Bill to Force School Board Open Sessions

Assembly Proposal Closes Loophole in Anti-Secrecy Law

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — A proposal to close a loophole which allows school boards to avoid compliance with Wisconsin's anti-secrecy law drew strong support Tuesday from a legislative committee.

The Assembly's State Affairs Committee voted 11-0 to back a bill for passage which grew out of a school board controversy in Appleton where The Post-Crescent revealed that the loophole exists.

The bill, authored by Assembly Speaker Harold Froehlich, R-Appleton, Ervin Conradt, R-Shiocton, and David O. Martin, R-Neehan, would compel city school boards to comply with term for the new judge, also will insure that in the future the election dates for the two benches do not again fall together, he explained.

From Around State
State Court Administrator Edwin Wilkie told the committee that in the past year he has sent in about 12 judges from other parts of the state to try to relieve the backlog of cases.

No opposition was expressed to the Steinhilber bill at the hearing.

The Judicial Council's position concerned a request from the Waupaca County Board to Knowles that the planned second County Court be delayed until 1971, rather than started in July.

Knowles asked the council to comment.

The council, noting that two years ago it had opposed the second court, said that it has no new information on which to change its position. But it also does not know that the situation has not changed since the Legislature required that the new court be created over the council's opposition, the group explained.

Therefore, it will not take a position on the board's request, especially because nomination papers have also been filed for the court post scheduled to open this summer, according to the council.

Justice Vows Stiff Penalties

Council Is Told Order Must be Upheld At New London

NEW LONDON — Municipal Justice O. W. Capener's annual report to the city council Tuesday includes a vow to be increasingly severe with offenders of public order.

"It seems that the efficient work of our dedicated police force plus fair enforcement by the court had greatly promoted safety for our pedestrians and auto drivers. Our record in New London without serious injury or death from automobile traffic is outstanding," Capener stated.

The Justice stated, however, that three cases of attacks on unoffending persons took place on city streets last year. These attacks must be stopped.

Justice Capener then promised increasingly severe penalties upon those attacking others or fighting on public streets.

He said "The great majority of our citizens deserve credit for their support of the court and the law, sharing the common aim of an orderly safe city for our children, women and all citizens to be safe on our streets day or night."

Capener reported the city received $9,386 from fines and forfeitures during 1968. There were 314 city cases and 85 for Waupaca County and the Wisconsin State Patrol. The county received $3,283 on county and state arrests.

Bonds Sold For Building School Addition

$340,000 Issue Approved Last Year At Tomorrow River

AMHERST — A $340,000 bond issue has been sold by the Tomorrow River School District to finance an addition to the elementary facility here.

The bond was approved 300-279 in a referendum last December. The bonds, which will be retired over a 20-year period, were purchased by Piper, Jaffrey and Hopwood, a Minneapolis investment firm. The firm, one of four bidders, quoted a net interest rate of 4.9927 percent.

4 New Classrooms
The funds will allow construction of an addition to an 11-room school built in 1960. The addition includes four classrooms, a library and a multipurpose room. Work will probably be started in the spring. Supt. Walter Bohman said, the addition is scheduled for completion in the fall. No construction firm has been hired but bids will be let this month or in March.

Elementary schools at Nelsonville and Amherst Junction will be closed after the addition is completed. There are 35 pupils at Nelsonville and 65 at Amherst Junction.

Treasurer of Hilbert Church Honored for 20-Years Service

HILBERT — Walter Vollmer, church and purchase of a new organ. The school was also remodeled, new desks were purchased and many improvements were made for the educational benefit of the parish children.

Vollmer was treasurer during the pastorate of four priests: The Rev. Theodore Kolbe, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Martin Jaekels; the Rev. Alfred Loehr and Father Schmitt.

During his two decades on the council Vollmer was active in planning a new parish rectory, which was built in 1951. A few years later he assisted with arrangements for improvements to the church, including installation of aluminum siding, new roof, pews, redecorating of the building date has been mentioned.

Because of the uncertainty of conditions affecting parochial schools no decision could be made on the future of parochial education in the parish.

The school has classes for six grades, with the first two attending Hilbert Public Schools.

The pastor complimented Jerome Weins, who has charge of the parish cemetery, for his excellent work in keeping it a place of honor and reverence.

Pitzen was named chairman of a committee to look into a drainage and surface water problem during heavy rain in the church basement.

Rezoning for Grocery Addition Put Off Again

NEW LONDON — Rezoning of a residential lot to permit an addition to a neighborhood grocery store was held over to a future meeting once again by the city planning commission.

Arthur Schmidt, 400 E. Quincy St., has been seeking rezoning of the property for several months and has appeared before the commission regularly to discuss the planned addition to his store.

The addition would be constructed on a lot Schmidt owns adjacent to the store. He told commission members Monday the house on the lot had been vacant since November. Schmidt also owns a home adjacent to the store property.

Had Petition
When Schmidt requested the rezoning he presented a petition bearing signatures of residents of the area asking that he be allowed to construct the addition.

The request was held over for study. At a subsequent meeting the commission voted to have an ordinance on rezoning drawn for presentation in January. The director of public works was asked to look into zoning for neighborhood grocery stores.

Monday the commission decided to hold the matter over for a meeting so an ordinance can be drawn.

New London Housing Authority (NLHA) members and Wallace Wendt, Appleton, developer for the city's low rental development for the elderly, met with the commission on site for the 60-unit structure.

Wendt told the commission five sites have been surveyed by the authority and Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) since the commission turned down the proposed site on Division Street, between Beacon Avenue and Cook Street.

He said the original site had been revamped to provide additional parking and a plan for increasing parking on Division Street also had been devised.

The greatest objection raised by the commission had been what they considered to be a lack of parking.

Parking Plan
Wendt said the new plan would be for 27-28 parking spaces on the development site and an additional five spaces on Division Street. He pointed out the original proposal was more than HUD recommends for the type development planned.

NLHA members indicated they would be submitting a site for the commission to approve at an upcoming meeting. Two sites presently under greatest consideration by NLHA are the originally proposed site and a site on Hancock and Algoma streets.

Members approved plans for Abraham's Fourth Addition as prepared by Glass & Donaldson, Waupaca engineering firm. The development in the area of Lawrence and Minerva streets consists of 40 lots.

Demands of Militant Young Blacks

The demand on many campuses for more Afro-American courses, for separate living and social quarters for blacks, for more blacks on faculties and administrations has developed because of the neglect of the white majority over the last century. But the proposed solutions have some serious drawbacks.

Columnist John Roche, also a professor at Brandeis University, has pointed out that the real reason for the demands is that most of the blacks have found they cannot keep up with their white confreres in the regular academic program. Mr. Roche blames this entirely on the deprived elementary and secondary schools which the majority of blacks have attended and not upon lack of intellectual abilities.

The experience on many campuses serves to bear this out. Some years ago President Robert Goheen of Princeton told of the difficulties in finding qualified Negro applicants. Wesleyan University, which has made a determined drive for

Eliminating Draft Won't be Easy

President Nixon's directive to the Department of Defense to study ways in which the Selective Service System can be eliminated once "the expenditures for Vietnam are substantially reduced" is bound to arouse controversy in the country especially among the military.

Clearly the only way to assure enough volunteers even for a peacetime service is to increase substantially military pay and fringe benefits. A lot of doubt has been expressed that the current number of volunteers would have any relevance to an entirely volunteer organization since many men enlist in the realization that they eventually will be drafted.

But a completely voluntary — or mercenary — military raises several other questions. It has generally been assumed that the defense of one's nation is something required of all American young men, a responsibility, a duty, that comes with the privilege of being an American. Would there be something lost in conceding that this responsibility no longer exists?

It also has been accepted that the presence of "civilians" in the military, of reservists, National Guardsmen and draftees, stimulates the sometimes narrowly oriented military into more progressive programs, away from the purely traditional and even into more effective ways of fighting a war. Would a purely voluntary military be a closed shop with closed minds and would this indeed be a threat to American security?

The Four Big Powers and Middle East

The decision of President Nixon, after conferring with the National Security Council last Saturday, to agree to four-power talks to encourage a settlement of the crisis in the Middle East will undoubtedly arouse Israeli fears of an "imposed" peace. But the aim of any talks should be to insist that somehow the Israelis and the Arabs sit down themselves and work out agreements. If the threat of an "imposed" peace must be used, it is worth it to avoid what could be a direct confrontation between the United States and the Soviet Union and in any case a resumption of open hostilities which will only further polarize the opponents.

The decision also reflects President Nixon's understanding that the United States has neglected Middle Eastern problems for a long time, probably due mostly to our Vietnamese adventure.

Charles Malik, one-time president of the United Nations General Assembly, philosopher at the American University in his native Beirut, and teacher at various times at Harvard, Dartmouth and the American University in Washington, recently commented upon the decline of American influence among the Arabs. He expressed "radical pessimism about the Arab-Israeli problem and profound disappointment at the performance of the United States in the Middle East Twenty years ago, even 15 years ago, the Middle East as a whole was very friendly toward the West, and hopes and aspirations were all Western-oriented. Today 80 per cent of this is exactly the opposite. It may be more than 80 per cent. And even the remaining 20 per cent are

The Neenah Times lectures the Monro e Sentinel "frenetically" for having spoken so disrespectfully of patent "innards" in a newspaper.

We see no particular reason for the flurry on either side. If the patent innards has all the delectable charm friend Stone gives it then it is bound to succeed.

But the same argument he advances in its favor would do away with local papers altogether, for a large city paper such as The Chicago Post costs less and has three times as much reading matter of even such as The Neenah Times.

Nixon May Need Help
Foreign Service Officers Not Best Men to Run State Department

BY JOHN P. ROCHE

There is still no hard news on who is going to run the State Department, but I am depressed. At a farewell party for Secretary Rusk, I noticed a large number of Foreign Service Officers purring like contented pussycats, and several observed to me (with a frankness I had not noticed during my White House tenure) that they could never grasp the "big picture."

This is the model — admittedly in caricature — but it was built around a central fallacy: that wisdom can be institutionalized. There are brilliant men in the Foreign Service, but there is absolutely no necessary connection between their brilliance and their "training," which amounts to a prolonged apprenticeship likely to emasculate all but the most discreetly virile. For roughly 20 years the aspiring FSO must inch up the ladder, avoiding "controversy," deferring to those who will write his efficiency reports, worrying whether his wife has been sufficiently deferential to the Ambassador's wife, and — above all — covering his backside, that is, making sure that he can't have any mistakes tied on his tail.

The Cable Crisis

This has resulted in what I call the standard crisis cable. The sequence goes as follows: 1) the President learns from the Associated Press ticker that there has been a sudden coup in East Pomerania. This comes as a bit of a shock since East Pomerania has not been on the crisis list and has not even made the "funny papers" (as we called the daily Top Secret State Department summary) President inquires gently what in hell is happening. 2) "Flash" cable goes out to Amembassy, East Pomerania, noting concern by "highest authority" and inquiring in formal language what the hell is happening. 3 Cable comes in from "Country Team" East Pomerania: paragraph 1 — "We believe . . ."; para. 2 — "On the other hand . . ."; para. 3 — "Yet . . ."; para. 4 — "nonetheless . . ."; para. 5 — "Would appreciate your views."

The most distinctive thing about this cable is, of course, that nobody is ever going to get hanged on the basis of it, though in one case I know of the President threatened to abolish the embassy and turn its functions over to the Associated Press. Every alternative is covered: the odd-numbered paragraphs can be used later to justify one position; the even-numbered ones provide defense against another outcome. And the ball is back in Washington's court where the "crisis committee" adds East Pomerania to its list and names two "task forces" to prepare contingency plans. If nothing happens in East Pomerania, the contingency plan may have the necessary 15 to 20 clearances in a year and a half. If anything happens, the President is on his own.

This is why the President needs what is known in the trade as an "FSO-buster" well up in the State Department, preferably as under-secretary. He can't be an amateur; ideally, he is someone who has a distinguished record in the system, but is not a product of it. Averell Harriman might serve as the model, and I suspect that after a few months of the innocence of Undersecretary Richardson and the blandness of Undersecretary Johnson, President Nixon will be desperately searching for a younger version of that magnificent old pirate.

Editor, The Post-Crescent.

There is a saying, "The only thing that we can be sure of in this world is death and taxes." I sometimes wonder if the person who originally said that knew just how right he was.

The people on the school boards, teachers and politicians must realize that other people need a few raises too. You people don't care if the low income bracket people lose everything they have, as long as your pipe dreams come true. Well this is a two way street. Your day is coming.

In my opinion people should move out of this tax crazy city and state.

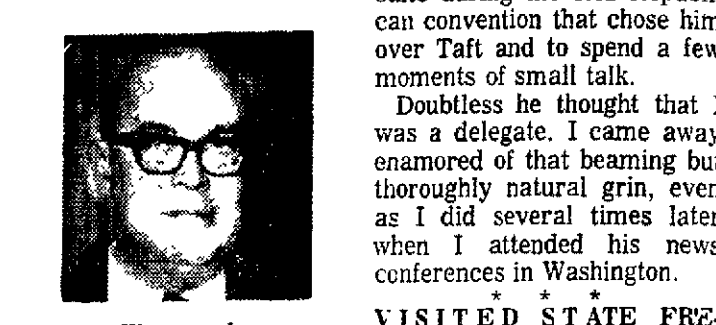

Wisconsin Report
Wyngaard Rates
Johnson Low Man
Among His Memories

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — Man and boy, your reporter during his professional lifetime has had a glancing but generally pleasant acquaintance with most of the presidents of the United States, and virtually all of the unsuccessful major party nominees for that office.

It seems decades ago — as, indeed, it was — that I engendered the White House for the first time — and managed to bring with me a friend who was not a reporter — for a Franklin D. Roosevelt news conference and was invited by that cordial man to tarry a few moments at its conclusion to answer his questions on what was going on in Wisconsin in those days.

It may be that the memory of that day remains especially green because of the enormous contrast in the security arrangements provided for the president then and now. For on my last visit to Washington, when I was invited to call at the White House by an old friend who was employed there, I was detained for nearly an hour at the gate by what seemed a small army of secret service, FBI and other operatives.

VISITED WITH TRUMAN

There was spunky Harry S. Truman, with whom I had a pleasant chat at the 1948 Democratic convention through the intervention of an old and mutual friend, Leo T. Crowley of Madison.

There was Wendell Wilkie, a warm, effusive giant of a man who didn't think it odd to get out of his Wisconsin primary election campaign bus and hold a news conference in the middle of an Appleton street and cause a traffic jam. He loved to spend late night hours in defiance of his hand-wringing staff assistants to trade stories and opinions on the issues of the day with the Wisconsin correspondents who traveled with him in his last and cruelly unsuccessful campaign.

No one could say that Thomas E. Dewey, nominated by the Republicans twice in the 1940s, was an especially outgoing man, but he managed to walk through the cars of the campaign train to make the acquaintance of the "local's" who would board it as he traversed the country in his campaigns.

RECALLS STEVENSON CHARM

Adlai Stevenson, philosophy and outlook aside, was one of the most charming men I have had the pleasure of meeting in a lifetime spent with politicians. No one who has ever visited with him informally can forget the velvety quality of that voice, the exquisite vocabulary, and the il-concealed revulsion toward some of the ruder aspects of politics on the stump.

Gen. Eisenhower spent comparatively little time in Wisconsin, but I remember that I managed to escape the notice of the doormen at his Chicago suite during the 1952 Republican convention that chose him over Taft and to spend a few moments of small talk.

Doubtless he thought that I was a delegate. I came away enamored of that beaming but thoroughly natural grin, even as I did several times later when I attended his news conferences in Washington.

VISITED STATE FREQUENTLY

It would have been difficult for anyone in my work to avoid encounters with President Nixon and Hubert Humphrey, remembering the frequency of their Wisconsin visits over the years.

Mr. Humphrey had an affinity for members of the press. Many reporters could restrain their enthusiasm for Mr. Nixon, but our encounters were always pleasant, and especially one private session with him in the private dining room of one of Milwaukee's best restaurants.

The late John Kennedy, of course, was a joy to hear, but my own strongest memory of our first meeting — at the home of a mutual friend in Milwaukee — was one of shyness. There was also the quick grin when I commented on his mastery of classical literary allusions in his carefully prepared "off-the-cuff" speeches.

JOHNSON VISITED ONCE

No, this is not a name dropping exercise. These thoughts came as it occurred to me that Lyndon Johnson, that famously gregarious man, was the only man of his rank in my adult lifetime with whom my acquaintance was so slight as to be negligible. Just once, several years before he became president, did I shake his hand. That was at a crowded Milwaukee reception which was a part of the only Wisconsin political visit he made during his career to the best of my recollection.

Strictly Personal
'Telling It Like It Is'
Is Unphilosophical

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

The most tiresome piece of cant in the last couple of years is the phrase, "Telling it like it is." Apart from being ungrammatical, it is unphilosophical as well.

The idea behind it is a good one. Before we can handle reality, we have to describe it accurately. We need to know the nature of the disease before we attempt a cure. And restructuring reality to fit our self-delusions is surely society's most prevalent error.

But, too often, "Telling it like it is" has come to mean merely replacing one half-truth with another half-truth.

It has come to mean substituting the slogans of revolt for the slogans of smugness. And then calling for changes — often badly needed changes — by shifting power from one group to another, rather than distributing the power-base more broadly and equitably.

Besides, "Telling it like it is" is not enough. It must be accompanied by telling it as it should be. And this demands deep thought, mature value-judgments, and a sound knowledge of the historic consequences of revolution.

Man must have a vision, not just a gripe. Man must have a prescription that works to alleviate the ills of all, not just a grudge against the inequities of our present society. Otherwise, what begins as a noble and humanitarian movement ends as a change of masters more than a change of heart and spirit.

Telling it as it should be means understanding more than we do about the nature of man. It means going beyond slogans and grudges and actions based on bitterness and resentment. It means utilizing what our scholars and researchers have learned about social systems and psychology and the distribution of income and effective ways to learn and all the multiple disciplines that can help bring us into the light, so that our

Capp's Lance Spears Liberal 'Sacred Cows'

Cartoonist Hits
SDS, Welfare, Overseas Aid

OSHKOSH — Al Capp, adroit heckler of the Establishment and nationally-known cartoonist, turned his rapier wit on students and faculty at Oshkosh State University Monday.

In only one instance did the creator of Life in Dogpatch, U.S.A., come out second best as he expressed his views on everything from birth control pills to how to get out of the ghetto.

Acting as his own straight man and posing the written questions from faculty and students, Li'l Abner and Daisy Mae's "Pen-and-ink father" was generous with his philosophy and beliefs.

QUESTION: "What do you think of Students for a Democratic Society (SDS)?"

ANSWER: "It should be recognized for what it is." He cited a visit made by Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara to Harvard University. McNamara, said Capp, was treated "as a member of the despised minority group" by SDS students. They shouted him down, struck him with signs, rocked his car as he was leaving the lecture hall and forced the administration to get the secretary off the campus by a devious rouse.

"The next day," Capp continued, "Dean Monroe was asked what king of punishment would be meted out to these students, and his reply was that their reaction was a political activity and required no punishment.

"If depriving a man of the right to speak and move about without bodily harm is a political activity, then rape is a social event and sticking up a gas station is a social transaction.

Q: "What is your opinion of life in the ghetto?"

A: "Maybe it's because I was raised in a ghetto, where we liked being with people like ourselves, and where we worked and sweated to get out of it, that I can't understand the ghetto today. Our kind of ghetto, Father Groppi wouldn't shed a tear over, because we did everything to get out of the ghetto, not go into it with a flock of cameramen."

Q: "What is your answer to the welfare problem?"

A: "Welfare is an ideal business for an incompetent to run and get rich at it. There is a satisfactory solution for it—anyone who can walk to the welfare office can walk to work."

Q: "Should the faculty be allowed to determine tenure and coerce student policy?"

A: "The administration was put here the same way a boil is put on your rump — to give you agony and pain. The people who sweated and labored to build and pay for this university, have put the administration in charge, and they are not going to turn it over to a half-educated, half human 'bedwetter' to run."

When questioned about the Peace Corps, Capp ran into fire from the mother of a girl in the Peace Corps, and came out second best. She challenged Capp on the stage of Albee hall and got him to concede that help is needed all over the world.

Became Disenchanted
"When the Peace Corps was established, I was proud of it," Capp began. As time went on, he said, he became disenchanted with taking American know-how and money to help overcome the disadvantages of other nations, while poverty exists in America. "What's wrong with the American Indian and some help for him?" he asked. "Squalor, misery and neglect exist here, too, and our Americans are entitled to help first.

"It's like the guy in a corner tavern who invites everyone to have a drink on him, while his own kids are crying for milk."

Q: What do you think of the war in Vietnam?

A: "I am horrified, sickened and bewildered by it. Anyone who kills an American is no damned good."

Q: What do you think of the Walker Report?

A: Police were accused of over-reacting. How do you over-react to a potato studded with nails in your face, or calling your mother an unseemly name? I think the Chicago police showed saintly restraint when they didn't kill those kids."

Q: "How do you feel about the birth control pill?"

A: "It came too late. It should have been around when Mr. De Gaulle Sr. met Mrs. De Gaulle Sr."

Sheriff's Revamping Gets Cool Reception

Outagamie County Sheriff Calvin Spice's proposed revamping of his department's jail, radio and Huber Law sections did not receive encouraging treatment Tuesday from the county board's executive committee.

Before referring the plan to the personnel committee, several executive committeemen warned there were serious implications in the extensive re-classifying of certain employees.

Supv. Marvin Babbitt, Seymour, said that a complete study should be made before considering such changes.

"There's more to this than just what sounds like on the top," he said. "you can't change your policy on the whims of one man," he added.

Babbitt warned that several county employees have sought reclassification over the years.

Under Spice's plan, the jailer, radio operator and Huber Law officer designations would be abolished, and the entire operation would become communications and security division. As a result, jailers and the Huber officer would get pay hikes.

Spice contends this would make the department more versatile.

Supv. Eugene Kloes, chairman of the courts, justice and enforcement committee, indicated that he did not believe the plan would work. He talked with other police department heads, he said.

However, he said jailers' salaries are "too low," and should be boosted. Jailers start at $444 per month.

Kloes' committee endorsed Spice's plan last month. It was expected to come before the county board in February, but could be delayed.

Cost $8,000

The Spice proposal would cost about $8,000, giving $90 per month increases to jailers and $75 to Huber Law officer. Radio operators also would get raises.

In other business, Vernon Geiger, of the Soil Conservation Service, told the executive committee that continued effort for providing channeling improvements in the Bear Creek watershed requires county board endorsement.

The county board will have to agree to maintain the channeling system, he said.

If endorsed, the federal government will be asked to do the engineering, which in effect, is ditching and developing water controls. The federal government will pay for the engineering, he said, but affected land owners would be assessed for part of the cost.

The program will be for flood prevention and elimination of silt pollution. Geiger said. Regional planning agencies and local offices of state and federal agencies are working together in this effort.

Geiger will meet with a steering committee of township representatives this week to coordinate the program.

A proposal for a hearing on making the zoning committee and not the board of appeals the policy-making body on zoning gained executive committee okay.

The zoning committee indicated the board of appeals now is a policy group and should only be an appeal board. The committee asked the county board for authority to hold a hearing so it could come up with a recommendation on the proposed change.

Buckley to Ask Council to Okay Cities Alliance

Urban Centers Will Incorporate, Have Lobbyist in Madison

Mayor George Buckley intends to ask the city council tonight to formally approve Appleton's membership in the Alliance of Cities.

The Alliance, an informal organization comprised of the state's 20 more populated cities, will incorporate later this month and have a full time secretary-lobbyist in Madison.

"We hold membership in the League of Wisconsin Municipalities, which represents both cities and villages," Buckley said Monday afternoon," but the central cities around the state have discovered this is not enough.

Banding Together

"The central cities are banding together to push for legislation that will help the more populated areas with property tax and many other problems that require legislative reform at Madison," Buckley declared.

Buckley said while the League was effective in some areas, it had a predominant village membership and the cities with population were in need of more help.

He called the Alliance of Cities a "self-help plan" and said the city's membership fee would be minimal.

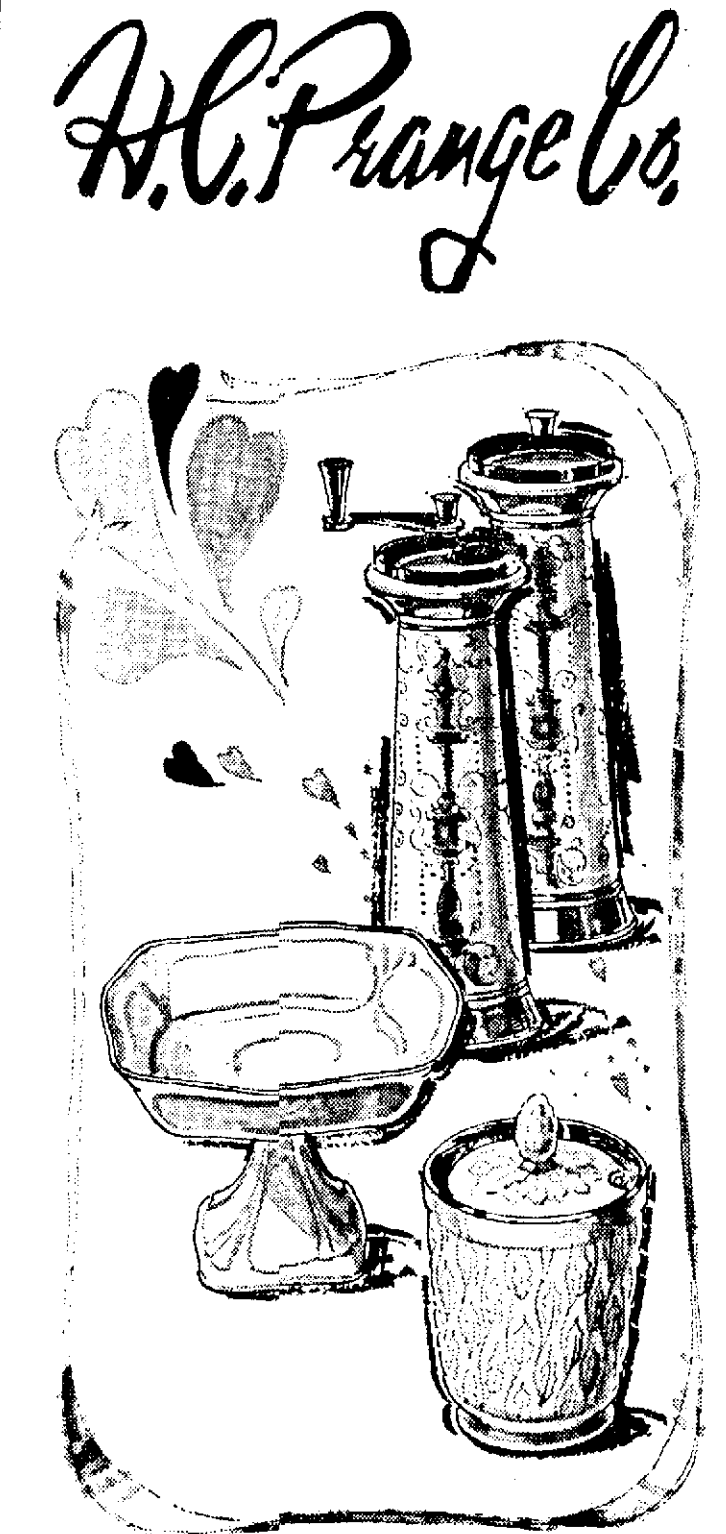

Buckley was one of several Fox Valley officials attending a meeting at Madison last week when a 13-4 vote was taken to proceed with incorporation, subject to approval of local city councils.

In a development since that meeting, City Manager Myron Medin of Fond du Lac took issue with his city attorney, Henry Buslee, and says he is recommending membership in the Alliance.

Buslee had been the Fond du Lac spokesman at the Madison meeting. Medin said he would ask the city council to consider joining when it met Feb. 12.

$1 Billion Annually Urged in Education

Task Force Recommends Extra Funds for Schools in Big Cities

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's task force on education has recommended the federal government spend at least another $1 billion a year to help the nation's big city schools.

The confidential report also had some blunt remarks on the President's image as far as education and black Americans are concerned, the Washington Post said today.

Nixon is criticized by the task force for a campaign statement endorsing block grants of federal school funds to states, and the report said the President had created the impression during the campaign he would go slow on school desegregation.

Voting Age Amendment Introduced

MADISON (AP)—A constitutional amendment which would lower the voting and majority ages from 21 to 19 was introduced Tuesday in the Wisconsin Assembly.

The measure, sponsored by Kyle Kenyon, R-Tomah; Frank Nikolay, D-Abbotsford; and Jack Steinhilber, R-Oshkosh, must pass both houses of the Legislature twice, in substantially the same form, before it may be submitted to the voters.

Another amendment, lowering voting age to 18, has already been introduced.

Also introduced was a proposal calling for an advisory referendum to be placed on the April ballot asking whether the state should assume the costs of vocational, adult and technical education.

The costs currently are supported by local taxpayers through the property tax.

Wife of Captive U. S. Engineer Released in Iraq

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Elizabeth Bail, wife of American oil engineer Paul Bail, has been released from house arrest in Iraq, reports from Baghdad said today.

Mrs. Bail was placed under house arrest when her husband was jailed in December for what Iraqi officials said were "activities connected with espionage."

The reports said Mrs. Bail is staying in the Belgian Embassy in Baghdad and her husband is still in custody. The Belgian Embassy has been working to win release of the Bails on behalf of the United States, which has no diplomatic relations with Iraq.

Iraqi Information Minister Abdallah Sallum As-Samarrai said Thursday the government "will show leniency and will pardon" Bail and that he might be released in a few days.

House Unlikely to Veto Congressional Raises

WASHINGTON (AP) — The final decision on whether to raise congressional pay scales by $12,500 a year has been left to the House, where opponents are given little chance of vetoing the increase.

Several resolutions to scuttle the raises are before the House Rules Committee, which scheduled a closed hearing today, but have only outside hope for survival.

Congress takes a 10-day Lincoln's birthday break starting Friday and the House, if it is to act, must do so by then.

Without a House or Senate veto, proposals of a special commission to hike congressional pay and increase other top federal salaries become effective automatically Feb. 14.

The Senate, with Majority Leader Mike Mansfield wondering "if we are going to be nice or men," decided by a 47 to 34 vote Tuesday that it wouldn't mind having a raise.

The Senate actually voted against a resolution by Delaware Republican John J. Williams opposing the big congressional pay boost.

"We're setting the pattern for expenditures that could cost $4.5 billion," he told the Senate during three hours' debate.

Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, who held center stage for 25 minutes, said he's

How They Voted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wisconsin Sens. Gaylord Nelson and William Proxmire voted Tuesday for a resolution, introduced by a fellow Democrat, to block a salary increase for congressmen. The Senate rejected the resolution 47-34.

The task force said Nixon is not regarded as a particularly "education-minded President."

Alan Pifer, president of the Carnegie Corp., is chairman of the task force which drew up the report several weeks ago.

Not Significant

In urging a billion dollar increase in aid to big city education, the task force said the current Title I program to help disadvantaged children isn't having "significant impact on the massive problem of urban education."

The reason for the failure, the task force said, is the $1.12 billion allotted to the program this year is spread too thin.

It was suggested the program either be withdrawn, be concentrated in big cities, or the President support a new Urban Education Act to supplement it.

Declaring "the failure of education in most of our larger cities is now so great as to constitute one of the Nation's most serious domestic problems," the report commented that Nixon did not have general support in the cities or among minority groups.

"To speak bluntly, the new administration will be tackling the enormous problems of urban education with few or no credentials, and at a time when there is widespread disillusionment in the ghettos caused by the rosy promises of subsequent failure of the past eight years," the report said.

"To complicate the problem further, the new administration is taking office at a time of severe budget stringency and of white backlash against special government efforts to help the black men."

Despite these factors, the task force said Nixon "has no alternative but to make the effort."

Other proposals by the task force suggest the Office of Education be a separate federal department, appointment of at least one Negro to a principal education post in the administration, steps to equalize per pupil expenditures among the states and more funds for Head Start, the Teacher Corps, vocational education and other programs.

Jumbojet Makes First Taxi Test

EVERETT, Wash. (AP) — The 625-mile-an-hour Boeing 747 Jumbojet, the largest commercial airliner in the world, trundled around Paine Field Tuesday on its first taxi tests. The 490-passenger monster's top speed, however, was 60 m.p.h.

Its pilot, Jack Waddell, rolled it down a long runway on the airport where the builder, the Boeing Co., has its 747 production plant.

Taxi tests will continue this week, and the plane will be tested on takeoff rolls to about 160 m.p.h., just short of the velocity at which it will leave the ground.

Pueblo Inquiry Few Secrets Destroyed

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — Classified material fell into North Korean hands. But Rear Adm. Edward Grimm, a member of the court who heard Harris detail the loss earlier this week in a session closed in the interest of national defense, asked how many bags full went over the side.

"At least one bag went overboard," Harris said.

"One of 12?"

Yes, sir.

"Why were you using laundry bags?" Grimm asked, when the Pueblo had special weighted bags made at a cost of $50 apiece for jettisoning charts and publications.

"They were not sufficient," said Harris.

"Then two laundry bags and 10 others were not destroyed?"

"I don't know the number. I was aware of one bag that went over."

Harris said the special bags were three feet long, 16 to 18

Judge Refuses Defense Plea To Dismiss Sirhan Charges

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Defense attempts to dismiss the murder indictment against Sirhan Bishara Sirhan failed Tuesday after both he and his tiny, grey-haired mother detailed their modest income to support contentions that the grand jury was not representative.

Mary Sirhan, 55, a housekeeper, said she never made more than $1,800 a year since her immigrant family came to this country in 1957. Then, as she rose to leave the stand, she added:

"I thank God that he gave me the strength and I thank you nice people also that I never got hungry and have a roof over my head."

She told newsmen later she was thanking the United States.

Sirhan, taking the stand for the first time, gave polite, sometimes smiling, mostly, "Yes, sir" testimony about his income: a net of $431 in 1967, for example.

The defense contention was that Sirhan, 24, "a poor man," was indicted in the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy by comparatively affluent grand jurors unrepresentative of minority groups or the community at large.

Motion Denied

The motion to quash the indictment on those grounds was denied by Superior Court Judge Herbert V. Walker in 24 words at a one-minute afternoon session.

"The motion will be denied on two grounds," he said. "First, I do not believe it is relevant to these proceedings, and, secondly, on the merits."

The eight-man, four-woman jury was to take the oath today before the start of selection of six alternate jurors.

Chief defense attorney Grant B. Cooper said he thought this would take "the balance of the week anyhow." Lynn D. Comp-ton, chief deputy district attorney, said it will be "well into next week before attorneys make opening statements and testimony begins."

Sirhan seemed in high spirits Tuesday, his gray suit freshly pressed. He chuckled over letters handed him by one of his lawyers. He took about 20 steps on an L-shaped route, to the witness box.

Swearing to tell the truth, the smiling Sirhan held his hand in a fist and said "I do" softly. Asked his name, he said "Sirhan, Sirhan"—accent on first syllable.

Cooper held out Sirhan's income tax withholding forms for 1964-68 and asked if he recognized them.

"Yes, sir, I do." He spoke clearly.

He confirmed that he earned a total after-tax net of $1,437.33 in 1964 from a drive-in restaurant and motor service, both in nearby Pasadena.

His total net in 1965 from two other employers was $984.90? "Yes, sir." In 1966 he netted $2,212.46 from a ranch and a construction company. A food store paid him a net $430.96 in 1967 and $752.35 in 1968, he verified.

His age? "Twenty-five next month." He lived at home in Pasadena with his mother and went to Pasadena City College in 1964-65. Did he turn over money from his "part-time jobs" to his mother?

"Some of it, yes."

Mother on Stand

Sirhan, after five minutes on the stand, was excused and his mother called. Mrs. Sirhan, not quite 5 feet tall, her hair in a bun, wore a dark coat and yellow-and-black-figured dress.

"Yes, I do," she whispered in taking the oath. She spent 18 minutes on the stand.

Cooper read into the record, from federal withholding form, her net earnings: 1958, $1,471.40; 1959, $1,600.35; 1960, $1,579.11; 1961, $1,593.71; 1962, $1,631.69; 1963, $1,603.58.

She said her 1964 earnings were the same as 1965, $1,768.76; 1966 showed $1,772.56; 1967, $1,752.60. No figure for 1968 was mentioned, but Mrs. Sirhan said she worked from 1957 to last Jan. 15 for a nursery school in Pasadena. Did Sirhan contribute to support of the home.

"Not any regular amount."

He spent his money, she said, on clothes and, "very much," to operate his second-hand auto.

"If I needed it and he had it he would give it to me," she said.

Cooper's income-tax figures showed her son Munir, 21, a general handyman, netted $674.68 in 1966, $1,156.88 in 1967, $2,698.60 in 1968. He paid no board and room, she said, but occasionally gave her money when she asked for it.

Son Adel, 30, is "a skilled musician who plays a big Arab drum in night clubs," one of Sirhan's attorney told a reporter. Cooper's tax data showed Adel's net earnings per year averaged $3,899.70 from 1957 through 1967.

Adel paid no board and room but from time to time contributed money "if he had it," Mrs. Sirhan said. Had he given her much? "No, he needed his money."

House Payments

She said she makes $70 a month payments on her house. The purchase price when she acquired it in 1962 was $12,000, she said, and she and a daughter, now deceased, contributed $1,000 each for the $2,000 down payment. The father returned to the Middle East some years ago.

She said she has no auto, walks to work, bakes her own bread and has a second-hand television set.

The defense presented testimony earlier that the grand jury which indicted Sirhan consisted mostly of people in professional, sales or managerial jobs, with college educations and had no members under 30 or poor, that most grand jurors make more than $15,000 a year.

The prosecution replied there would be a murder indictment regardless of the grand jury's make-up because the defense concedes Sirhan fired the shot that killed Kennedy.

Flaws Explained in The 'Rhythm Method'

BY GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you please explain the rhythm method for birth control? I'm sure this has appeared in your column before, but would like it repeated as I am getting married soon. — L.G.

This is a question which, frankly, I don't much like to write about. Why? Because at their churches, leaving the responsibility there rather than with me.

However, since the basis of

best it still is not as reliable a method as others.

As a physician, I recommend other methods of birth control. For those who, for religious reasons, consider that abstinence is the only acceptable method (and the rhythm method is periodic abstinence) I can explain the physiology. But I decline to accept responsibility in case the method, for any reason, fails. Thus I would prefer that such folks obtain pamphlets or whatever through the rhythm method can be a help to those who do want children as well as to those who do not, here is an outline.

A woman ovulates — an ovum, or egg is released from the ovary — at about mid-cycle. For a couple of days, as the ovum moves down the fallopian tube to the uterus, if it meets and unites with a male sperm cell, conception can occur.

There is no way to say accurately how long an ovum or sperm cell can remain viable — that is, active and capable of causing conception. About two days, a bit more or less, is the prevailing opinion, although some authorities think it may be longer.

It is because of this period of viability that a sperm cell, entering the female genital region a little before ovulation occurs, can still cause pregnancy when the ovum does appear.

The rhythm method, in plain terms, amounts to avoiding sexual activity for several days before and during the time the ovum is present and viable. Theoretically, if you accept the two-day viability of both ovum and sperm, four days of abstinence is enough.

But if some longer viability exists, the time of abstinence must be extended. Do you want to double it to be safer, and call it eight days? There—I don't want to answer this, because I cannot be certain. Some authorities say situations can occur permitting conception even outside that span.

All that aside, the question still remains: how do you know when that fertile period occurs? Those who want children will try to achieve conception during that fertile period. Those who want to avoid conception will avoid sexual union during that period.

I see that I don't have room today to go into the question of how to determine (or try to determine) when the fertile interval will occur, but I'll discuss that in tomorrow's column.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What do you think about a grandmother who locks the grandchildren in a closet because they cry? She says they are just mean, that's why they cry. — Mrs. M.A.

She's a sadly mixed-up woman and I'm sorry for her — but sorrier for the children. She's the grandmother, not the mother of these youngsters, and the children's parents should take whatever steps are necessary to make it impossible for her to abuse the children.

Note to Mrs. D.H.: Steady, hard drinkers very often lose sexual vigor. This may be made even worse by the pressure of whatever emotional problems lie behind the drinking. Giving up (or rigidly controlling) the drinking should help — but taking a clear-eyed look at the problems underlying the drinking may do even more good if those problems are identified, understood — and solved.

Emphysema can be controlled. To learn how to live with this serious lung disease, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Post-Crescent, requesting a copy of the booklet, "How to Control Emphysema," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 30 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

$4.8 Billion in State

Tax Collections Set New Record — Again

Special to The Post-Crescent

MADISON — Total taxes collected in Wisconsin by the federal, state and local governments during the year ending June 30, 1968, were up $567.1 million to a new record high of over $4.8 billion, according to a report just released by the Wisconsin Taxpayers Alliance. The total was up 13 per cent over the previous year, marking the ninth consecutive year of increasing tax collections in Wisconsin.

Of the total taxes collected and levied by federal, state and local governments in Wisconsin last year, $3.1 billion, or 64 per cent, went to the federal government, the Taxpayers Alliance reported. This was an increase of $400 million over the previous year. State and local governments received the remaining total of $1.7 billion, up over $167 million from 1967. During the same period, federal tax collections in the state increased by 15 per cent, while state and local taxes were up 11 per cent, according to the Alliance.

The Alliance notes that federal tax collections in Wisconsin have increased by about the same percentage as have state and local tax collections. From 1959 to 1968, federal taxes collected in Wisconsin increased 119 per cent compared with a 116 per cent increase in state and local tax collections.

Income taxes on individuals and corporations accounted for the major share of federal collections, with 20 per cent coming from corporate levies, and 72 per cent from individual income and employment taxes. State income tax yields increased $32 million in 1968 to a total of more than $504 million, the Alliance said.

Federal corporation income

Wednesday, February 5, 1969

taxes collected in Wisconsin in 1968 decreased $90 million from the 1967 level. Wisconsin corporate franchise tax collections followed a similar pattern, decreasing almost $7 million in the same period.

The property tax is still the largest single source of revenue among all state and local taxes, with gross levies in 1967 reaching over $830 million.
